Contaminated Tuna Tied to Poison Deaths

Health Experts Seek Positive Answers to Illnesses in Detroit

DETROIT (AP)—Health authorities still seek positive answers to day to whether contaminated tuna caused two food poisoning deaths and, if so, how many cans from the same batch still are on pantry shelves.

If any of the 5,760 cans shipped to Detroit area A&P food stores were contaminated, was there more than one? Were there others among the 25,400 cans of Japanese tuna packed the same day by the same West Coast packer?

Experts say the answers may be several days away.

Two Detroit women died of food poisoning tentatively diagnosed as "type E botulism," a rare type generally associated with marine life from extreme cold waters.

Ralph Johnson, U.S. Food and Drug Administration bacteriologist at Detroit, said "we have some toxic (poison) cultures" from the can from which the women ate, and that "preliminary indications make us very suspicious." But he was not ready to say whether it was type E or whether the tuna could have been responsible.

About a dozen cans from the suspected shipment, taken from store and pantry shelves proved negative in FDA tests.

Milton P. Duffy, chief of California's food and drug inspection, said at San Francisco he was confident a full check-out would show no tuna botulism involved. He said that the cannery is completely new and modern.

Margaret McCarthy, 39, died in Detroit Tuesday, three days after her neighbor, Collette Brown, 37, with whom she had shared a tuna fish snack late last week. Both developed symptoms resembling type-E botulism.

The tin from which they ate was traced to a consignment of 120 cases to Detroit area A&P food stores. The 6½-ounce cans bore the A&P label and were from a coded shipment with markings of WY3Y2 over 118X.

When health authorities first voiced suspicion, A&P withdrew all the WY3Y2-118X shipment.

Wednesday it ordered all A&P brand tuna withdrawn temporarily from its 4,400 supermarkets across the country.

When the public health is involved, A&P said in a statement, it makes every effort to cooperate with authorities and "to prevent" (Continued on Page 14)

New Hope Is Held in Paper Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner charted a new course today for settlement of the 104-day-old New York newspaper shutdown.

He announced that negotiators for the publishers of eight closed newspapers and for the striking Mailers Union reached tentative agreement on terms for a new contract.

The mailers are a sister union of the printers, whose strike against four newspapers last Dec. 8 led to the shutdown of the city's major newspapers.

Wagner urged that members of Local 6 of the International Typographical Union reconsider his formula for settling their strike. He suggested that a membership meeting be held next Sunday at Madison Square Garden for a new vote.

Wagner, who has been trying for almost two months to end the shutdown, announced the Mailers Union settlement and his proposal to speed a printer settlement in a statement at 2:30 a. m. Negotiations involving two other newspaper unions were in progress at the time.

The mayor recommended that Bertram A. Powers, president of Local 6, call a meeting in Madison Square Garden so as to provide larger accommodations for the men to hold a second vote on his settlement formula which the publishers have accepted.

Jurist Asked To Spare Man Who Wants To Be Executed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Justice Harlan of the Supreme Court was asked today to stay the execution tonight of a New York state prisoner who has fought off efforts of attorneys whom he calls "do-gooders"—to save his life.

Frederick Charles Wood, 51, condemned slayer of five persons, is scheduled to die in Sing Sing Prison's electric chair at 10 o'clock tonight.

"I really want to ride the lightning," Wood has said. "... I do not welcome any intrusion into this stinking case of mine."

Norman Dorsen, a New York University associate professor of law, filed with the Supreme Court clerk a petition asking that Harlan grant a stay to permit a hearing on Wood's sanity.

Army Field Band Drops 9 Southern Cities from Tour

JEKYLL ISLAND, Ga. (AP)—Nine Southern cities have been dropped from a concert tour by the Army field band and soldiers chorus because there was no assurance that audiences would be integrated.

The 93 musicians, at a motel at this Georgia coastal resort, enroute to Jacksonville, Fla., for a concert, learned of the change while watching a television newscast.

The Army announced in Washington earlier that planned appearances had been canceled at Greenville, Charleston and Columbia, S.C.; Savannah, Ga.; Montgomery, Ala.; and Hattiesburg, Vicksburg, Clinton and Meridian, Miss.

"Army policy requires that the U.S. Army field band perform in public before audiences that are seated on a desegregated basis," the announcement said.

Unmanned Satellite Launched by Soviet

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union launched an unmanned satellite today.

The satellite was named Cosmos 13, the Soviet news agency Tass announced.

The Soviets began launching the Cosmos series a year ago and said they were measuring radiation and other phenomena. Cosmos 12 was launched Dec. 22.

Tass said Cosmos 13 had been placed in orbit with an initial time to circle the earth of 89.77 minutes. The equipment installed on board the satellite is functioning smoothly, Tass said.

East Germans Reinforce Barricades in Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—East German border guards are adding concrete slabs to the steel barriers and barbed wire fences along 1.5 miles between the Western and Communist checkpoints at the West Berlin end of the autobahn from West Germany.

State College Taxing Power Bill Defeated

Ohio Senate Move Is Surprise; New Effort Possible

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—In a totally unexpected move, the Ohio Senate today defeated a bill permitting creation of seven-member boards of trustees for branches of state universities.

A companion bill which would have given such trustee boards the authority to levy taxes for branch operations was hastily withdrawn from the floor.

The trustee bill, the first to be defeated by the Senate this session, lost on a vote of 14 yes to 12 no. The constitution provides that a bill must receive a majority of the votes of all members elected to the Senate—which, this year, is 17.

A possibility remained that the bill might be revived later when more Republicans are present on the floor. Four were absent today for various reasons.

The Senate blow-up came as lawmakers were preparing to start their weekend recess.

Under present laws, branches of state universities such as those in Portsmouth, Newark, Zanesville and Lima are governed solely by trustees of the parent universities. The branches have no authority under law to tax their areas for branch university operations.

A major education measure cleared the House hurdle Wednesday. It would permit local school boards to make 12-month use of their buildings by means of either a trimester or quarter system under which pupils would be required either to attend school for two trimesters or three quarters a year. The House vote which sent the measure to the Senate was 93-37.

In another major action, the House passed and sent to the Senate a bill to override an attorney general's opinion outlawing con-

Once Around Roundtown

THE VILLAGE of Tarlton, with the cooperation of basketball fans in the Logan Elm School District, has made elaborate plans to give the Braves a rousing start to the regional tournament at Athens tomorrow.

Following a pep rally at the school, a parade led by a Tarlton Fire Department truck will escort the team through town.

Schools in the district will be dismissed early so all who wish may be in Tarlton at 2 p. m. when the caravan is scheduled to leave for the tournament.

Although pre-game ticket sales at the school indicate many local fans will follow the Braves, team boosters and merchants in the district have made arrangements for the Lancaster radio station to broadcast the game.

SPRING ARRIVED today according to the calendar, but Ol' Man Winter refused to bow out. Instead of her natural dress of green, Miss Spring was decked in "snow" white.

Most areas were blanketed with snow early today. A cold March wind prevented most Roundtowners from thinking of outdoor activities.

The early morning low here was 28 degrees, with an expected high today of 36-40. Cloudy skies with more March wind and snow flurries were included in the forecast for today and tonight.

However, fair skies and warmer temperatures, a high of about 46, were listed in the outlook for tomorrow.

Winter One of Most Severe in Last Century

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winter, 1962-63, whose wallowing of the Northern Hemisphere long will be remembered, yielded to spring at 3:20 a.m. today.

U.S. weathermen said the winter was among the most severe in the past 100 years.

Meteorologists said the winter was the coldest or near the coldest on record for Chattanooga, Birmingham, Cleveland, Atlanta, New Orleans and Pittsburgh.

But in Alaska, many areas had much warmer weather than usual.

The cost in lives from weather-linked accidents was high. Crop losses, particularly in the South, ran into the millions of dollars. The South also had tornadoes and some of the worst floods in its history.

But this excess of moisture didn't carry over to much of the West, where some states reported the driest winter in years, and fear there might be a water shortage later. Many ski resorts suffered from a lack of snow.

Bali Volcano Toll Hits 400

More Angry Eruptions From Peak Possible

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Bali island's rampaging Agung volcano has killed at least 400 persons, a spokesman for the Indonesian civil defense organization said today.

The spokesman said there was an increasing threat of more violent eruptions from the 10,308-foot volcano in northeast Bali.

President Sukarno had declared the tourist-mecca island a disaster zone.

It was not clear immediately whether the increased death toll was due to new eruptions. Previously, officials had put the death toll at 150 or more.

A Red Cross source said latest reports listed 125 known injured. In view of the jump in the death toll, the number of injured also was expected to rise sharply.

The volcano erupted briefly Feb. 19, killing 17 persons, then lapsed into a lull. Last Sunday it began spewing out rock and lava.

The civil defense spokesman said some 250,000 persons are being evacuated from an area 20 miles around the volcano, which the Balinese consider the center of the universe.

Tons of lava and rock have spread death and destruction over a wide area. Thick clouds of volcanic ash virtually blanketed out the sun over parts of Bali and darkened the sky over nearby populous east Java.

The spokesman said lava flows have isolated several areas to the east and south of Agung. However, the areas are accessible from the sea and boats are being rushed from nearby islands to aid victims and evacuate threatened areas.

Besakih, the largest and most sacred of Bali's temples, is on the slope of Agung, but so far it is reported undamaged. The temple is the focal point of a 100-year ceremony which was under way when Agung erupted.

During the ceremony held once each century, bones of the dead are burned to cleanse the island and rid it of spirits.

Dove Hunting Bill Killed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio House Conservation Committee has killed a bill that would have allowed hunting of doves under regulations similar to federal birds.

Reps. Clara Weisenborn, R-Dayton, and Bernice Mackenzie, D-Canton, have been spearheading the fight against bills seeking to open up hunting of doves and quail in Ohio.

There's already a ban on quail hunting in Ohio except on state-owned lands.

The women legislators, with representatives of the Ohio Grange and garden clubs, were the principal speakers against the bill Wednesday night. The committee postponed further consideration indefinitely after two hearings.

Foreign Aid Total Near $100 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP)—Total U.S. foreign aid since World War II will climb above the $100 billion market this year.

How well the giant overseas assistance program promotes U.S. security—and how it could be refashioned to do a better job—is the subject of a controversial report by a presidential advisory committee headed by Gen. Lucius D. Clay.

Aides said a final version of the Clay report was made available to President Kennedy today. The report is expected to be made public this weekend.

Figures furnished by the Agency for International Development, which administers U.S. aid, list $97.7 billion worth of military and economic help to 111 countries and foreign groups from July 1, 1945 through mid-1962.

Though detailed statistics for the current fiscal year have not yet been worked out, the over-all total is certain to push past $100 billion. That's because Congress last fall voted another $3.9 billion in new aid funds and other items like surplus food disposals abroad have been topping $2 billion a year.

France, with $9.4 billion, and Britain, with $8.7 billion, still rank 1-2 as the largest total receivers of postwar American aid. The Western allies got the bulk of their U.S. financial help in the early postwar years when the Marshall Plan focused on European recovery.

Today, the aid pattern is different. With Europeans now prospering and dispensing aid themselves, U.S. aid now focuses on under-

6 Major Denominations Seek Unity

OVERLIN, Ohio (AP)—A small group of churchmen met a three-day conference at Oberlin College today in what could be a historic venture—attempts to weld six major Protestant denominations of 22 million members into a single church.

The merger proposal, still in its preliminary stage, sparked much discussion but no controversy among delegates attending the Oberlin meeting.

Involved are 54 delegates from six denominations: Methodist Church, Protestant Episcopal Church, United Presbyterian Church, Disciples of Christ, Evangelical United Brethren and the United Church of Christ.

At a general meeting Wednesday night, Dr. James I. McCord, conference chairman, urged delegates to speak "with candor and truth."

"Nothing is to be gained by sidestepping issues that must be faced," McCord said.

For the layman, Wednesday night's discussion was highly complex, concerned mostly with the wording of a report on "Scriptures, tradition and the guardians of tradition," prepared by Elmer J. F. Arndt, professor of historical theology at Eden Theological Seminary, Webster Groves, Mo.

Taking part were some of the most accomplished Protestant theologians in this country.

The final session of the Oberlin meeting was to be held today and delegates expected to adopt a final statement outlining progress made at the meeting.

developed countries and poorer lands pressed by the Communists. Thus, far more American assistance has gone to nations like India, Korea, South Viet Nam and Turkey since the end of the Marshall Plan in 1952 than to West European countries.

American aid has undergone other changes too. In the 1949-52 Marshall Plan years, all but $3 billion of the $19 billion in U.S. overseas economic help went out as grants, or gifts. By 1962 the emphasis had changed to easy term loans aimed at stimulating economic development.

Of the $97.7-billion cumulative total, $66.6 billion has been in economic aid of which $42.7 billion was grants. Military assistance totaled $31 billion, all except $279 million in grants.

Spring Shivers Into Ohio Valley

981-Mile-Long Crest Awaited along Stream

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A wet, shivering spring waded into Ohio River country today to find the 981-mile stream inching almost imperceptibly toward a crest along virtually its entire length.

That, in itself, the Weather Bureau said, might become the flood's most valid claim to significance, because cresting along so long a front is unusual. Crests usually progress downstream by stages and, along the main stem, ordinarily require 10 to 15 days to pass out of the river at Cairo, Ill.

The Weather Bureau predicted the following crests, all occurring Friday (flood stages in parentheses):

Portsmouth, Ohio (50 ft.) 57.5; Maysville, Ky. (50 ft.), 58.5; Chillicothe, Ohio (49 ft.), 57; Cincinnati (52 ft.), 59.5, and Markland, Ind. (51 ft.), 57.5.

Elsewhere in Ohio, rivers that spilled from their banks for the second time in two weeks were falling.

The Weather Bureau in Columbus said the Scioto crested at Piketon at 25 feet late Wednesday—nine feet above flood stage—and then began receding slowly. Only sparsely settled lowlands were affected and no major property damage was reported.

At Athens, where the Hocking River caused $1 million damage early this month, the situation also had eased. The Hocking crested at 7 p.m. Wednesday at 17.8 feet, less than a foot above flood stage, then started to fall slowly. The Hocking reached 22.5 feet in Athens in the earlier flood.

Despite the drop in the Hocking and Scioto, numerous streams still were causing trouble. The Highway Patrol said that some 50 roads remained closed in Southern and Central Ohio because of high water. All but two of these were secondary routes.

U.S. 33 was inundated near Pomeroy at its intersection with Ohio 124 and U.S. 52 was blocked at several points along the Ohio River in the Hamilton County area.

San Jose Pact To Be Detailed

6 p.m. Telecast Due At Press Conference

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy reports to the nation tonight on the Costa Rica conference which produced a seven-nation agreement to speed economic development of the hemisphere and curb Cuba-based subversion.

Shortly before Kennedy left the Costa Rican capital of San Jose late Wednesday, he announced he would open a 6 p.m. Washington news conference with a statement of his Monday through Wednesday talks with the chief executives of Panama and the five Central American republics.

The President was certain to express satisfaction with the outcome of the San Jose meetings, which brought him personal acclaim and agreement on a detailed statement of policy to guide the United States in its dealings with Panama, Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, Nicaragua and Honduras.

Hoping to attract a large television-radio audience for the news conference, Kennedy postponed for two hours the 4 p.m. starting time of the session originally announced more than a week ago.

The news conference will be carried live on NBC, CBS, ABC and Mutual radio networks. It also will be carried live on television by NBC and CBS. ABC planned live broadcasting except along the Pacific Coast, where a 4:30 p.m. (Continued on Page 2)

44 Red Units Reject China

TOKYO (AP)—Communist China reported today that in the past five months 44 of the world's 81 Communist parties have attacked Chinese communism with epithets ranging from "warlike" to "Trotskyite."

It was the first time an exact figure has been given of the number of Communist antagonists publicly ranged against Peking in the great debate over how to bury Western capitalism.

The official Peking People's Daily recalled Peking's agreement with Moscow two weeks ago to halt the public name-calling which has embittered the great debate in the Communist camp. It noted, however, that the Chinese party reserved its right to make public answer to every argument which openly singled out the Chinese regime by name.

Contaminated Tuna Tied to Poison Deaths

Health Experts Seek Positive Answers to Illnesses in Detroit

DETROIT (AP)—Health authorities still seek positive answers today to whether contaminated tuna caused two food poisoning deaths and, if so, how many cans from the same batch still are on pantry shelves.

If any of the 5,760 cans shipped to Detroit area A&P food stores were contaminated, was there more than one? Were there others among the 23,400 cans of Japanese tuna packed the same day by the same West Coast packer?

Dove Hunting Bill Killed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio House Conservation Committee has killed a bill that would have allowed hunting of doves under regulations similar to federal birds.

Reps. Clara Weisenborn, R-Dayton, and Bernice Mackenzie, D-Canton, have been spearheading the fight against bills seeking to open up hunting of doves and quail in Ohio.

There's already a ban on quail hunting in Ohio except on state-owned lands.

The women legislators, with representatives of the Ohio Grange and garden clubs, were the principal speakers against the bill Wednesday night. The committee postponed further consideration indefinitely after two hearings.

Foreign Aid Total Near $100 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP)—Total U.S. foreign aid since World War II will climb above the $100 billion mark this year.

How well the giant overseas assistance program promotes U.S. security—and how it could be re-fashioned to do a better job—is the subject of a controversial report by a presidential advisory committee headed by Gen. Lucius D. Clay.

Aides said a final version of the Clay report was made available to President Kennedy today. The report is expected to be made public this weekend.

Figures furnished by the Agency for International Development, which administers U.S. aid, list $97.7 billion worth of military and economic help to 111 countries and foreign groups from July 1, 1945 through mid-1962.

Through detailed statistics for the current fiscal year have not yet been worked out, the over-all total is certain to push past $100 billion. That's because Congress last fall voted another $3.9 billion in new aid funds and other items like surplus food disposals abroad have been tipping $2 billion a year.

France, with $9.4 billion, and Britain, with $8.7 billion, still rank 1-2 as the largest total receivers of postwar American aid. The Western allies got the bulk of their U.S. financial help in the early postwar years when the Marshall Plan focused on European recovery.

Today, the aid pattern is different. With Europeans now prospering and dispensing aid themselves, U.S. aid now focuses on under-

6 Major Denominations Seek Unity

OBERLIN, Ohio (AP)—A small group of churchmen end a three-day conference at Oberlin College today in what could be a historic venture—attempting to weld six major Protestant denominations of 22 million members into a single church.

The merger proposal, still in its preliminary stage, sparked much discussion but no controversy among delegates attending the Oberlin meeting.

Involved are 54 delegates from six denominations: Methodist Church, Protestant Episcopal Church, United Presbyterian Church, Disciples of Christ, Evangelical United Brethren and the United Church of Christ.

At a general meeting Wednesday night, Dr. James I. McCord, conference chairman, urged delegates to speak "with candor and truth."

"Nothing is to be gained by sidestepping issues that must be faced," McCord said.

For the layman, Wednesday night's discussion was highly complex, concerned mostly with the wording of a report on "Scripture, tradition and the guardians of tradition," prepared by Elmer J. F. Arndt, professor of historical theology at Eden Theological Seminary, Webster Groves, Mo.

Taking part were some of the most accomplished Protestant theologians in this country.

The final session of the Oberlin meeting was to be held today and delegates expected to adopt a final statement outlining progress made at the meeting.

developed countries and poorer lands pressed by the Communists. Thus, far more American assistance has gone to nations like India, Korea, South Viet Nam and Turkey since the end of the Marshall Plan in 1952 than to West European countries.

American aid has undergone other changes too. In the 1949-52 Marshall Plan years, all but $3 billion of the $19 billion in U.S. overseas economic help went out as grants, or gifts. By 1962 the emphasis had changed to easy term loans aimed at stimulating economic development.

Of the $97.7-billion cumulative total, $66.6 billion has been in economic aid of which $42.7 billion was grants. Military assistance totaled $31 billion, all except $279 million in grants.

Spring Shivers Into Ohio Valley

981-Mile-Long Crest Awaited along Stream

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A wet, shivering spring waded into Ohio River country today to find the 981-mile stream inching almost imperceptibly toward a crest along virtually its entire length.

That, in itself, the Weather Bureau said, might become the flood's most valid claim to significance, because cresting along so long a front is unusual. Crests usually progress downstream by stages and, along the main stem, ordinarily require 10 to 15 days to pass out of the river at Cairo, Ill.

The Weather Bureau predicted the following crests, all occurring Friday (flood stages in parentheses): Portsmouth, Ohio (50 ft.) 57.5; Maysville, Ky. (50 ft.), 58.5; Chillicothe, Ohio (49 ft.), 57; Cincinnati (52 ft.), 59.5, and Markland, Ind. (51 ft.), 57.5.

Elsewhere in Ohio, rivers that spilled from their banks for the second time in two weeks were falling.

The Weather Bureau in Columbus said the Scioto crested at Piketon at 25 feet late Wednesday—nine feet above flood stage—and then began receding slowly. Only sparsely settled lowlands were affected and no major property damage was reported.

At Athens, where the Hocking River caused $1 million damage early this month, the situation also had eased. The Hocking crested at 7 p.m. Wednesday at 17.8 feet, less than a foot above flood stage, then started to fall slowly. The Hocking reached 22.5 feet in Athens in the earlier flood.

Despite the drop in the Hocking and Scioto, numerous streams still were causing trouble. The Highway Patrol said that some 50 roads remained closed in Southern and Central Ohio because of high water. All but two of these were secondary routes.

U.S. 33 was inundated near Pomeroy at its intersection with Ohio 124 and U.S. 52 was blocked at several points along the Ohio River in the Hamilton County area.

San Jose Pact To Be Detailed

6 p.m. Telecast Due At Press Conference

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy reports to the nation tonight on the Costa Rica conference which produced a seven-nation agreement to speed economic development of the hemisphere and curb Cuba-based subversion.

Shortly before Kennedy left the Costa Rican capital of San Jose late Wednesday, he announced he would open a 6 p.m. Washington news conference with a statement of his Monday through Wednesday talks with the chief executives of Panama and the five Central American republics.

The President was certain to express satisfaction with the outcome of the San Jose meetings, which brought him personal acclaim and agreement on a detailed statement of policy to guide the United States in its dealings with Panama, Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, Nicaragua and Honduras.

Hoping to attract a large television-radio audience for the news conference, Kennedy postponed for two hours the 4 p.m. starting time of the session originally announced more than a week ago.

The news conference will be carried live on NBC, CBS, ABC and Mutual radio networks. It also will be carried live on television by NBC and CBS. ABC planned live broadcasting except along the Pacific Coast, where a 4:30 p.m. (Continued on Page 2)

44 Red Units Reject China

TOKYO (AP)—Communist China reported today that in the past five months 44 of the world's 81 Communist parties have attacked Chinese communism with epithets ranging from "warlike" to "Trotskyite."

It was the first time an exact figure has been given of the number of Communist antagonists publicly ranged against Peking in the great debate over how to bury Western capitalism.

The official Peking People's Daily recalled Peking's agreement with Moscow two weeks ago to halt the public name-calling which has embittered the great debate in the Communist camp. It noted, however, that the Chinese party reserved its right to make public answer to every argument which openly singled out the Chinese regime by name.

Soybeans (Grown for all purposes)—1,856,000 acres of 102 per cent.

Sugar bee's—31,000 acres or 108 per cent.

Tobacco (acreage for harvest)—14,700 acres or 99 per cent.

Potatoes (late summer and fall crops)—14,500 acres or 100 per cent.

Woman Survives Auto Plunge into River

ENIA, Ohio (AP)—An automobile plunged 50 feet into the Mad River early today, but its sole occupant, a 26-year-old Dayton woman, escaped death.

Highway patrolmen said Geneva M. Evans either was thrown clear or managed to climb out after the car landed on its top—with only its wheels above water—in the Huffman Dam area.

She is in fair condition in Miami Valley Hospital, suffering from shock and severe cuts.

Israeli Plea To Be Shunned

Bonn Puts No Curb On Rocket Experts

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government is expected to tell Israel it cannot prevent German rocket scientists from working for the United Arab Republic because that is their right as private citizens.

A West German spokesman said Bonn would not comment until it received an official report of Israel's appeal for a curb on German scientists she charged are helping the U.A.R. build offensive missiles.

In a speech before Israel's Parliament Wednesday night, Mrs. Meir said:

"A number of German scientists and hundreds of German technicians are helping develop offensive missiles in Egypt and even armaments banned by international law, especially of a particular category serving solely for destruction of life.

"There is no doubt that the motives of this evil crew are on the one hand just for gain and on the other a Nazi inclination to hatred and destruction of Jews.

"We state emphatically that neither we, nor we are sure—world public opinion, can reconcile ourselves to this situation."

The Israeli charge posed a ticklish problem for Adenauer's regime, which tries to avoid any actions which could be interpreted as anti-Semitic. It has stated repeatedly that private German citizens living abroad can take whatever jobs they please and observers felt it would be difficult for the government to retreat from this position.

cession games at the state and county fairs. The bill, which undergirds the financial setup of many fairs, was passed as an emergency by a final vote of 113-7. It is designed to permit concession games at this year's fairs starting in June.

The aim is to permit games where skill is a factor in winning. The measure now goes to an apparently receptive Senate.

The vote on the bill to permit the trimester and quarter systems in public schools cut across party lines with 72 Republicans and 21 Democrats in favor. It was sponsored by Reps. Walter Powell, R-Butler; Sam Landes, R-Madison; Barry Levey, R-Butler, and Charles Mooney, D-Cuyahoga.

Powell described the measure as one answer to classroom shortages but emphasized the authority to abandon the traditional semester system is entirely permissive with individual school boards.

Objectors complained the new system could complicate family life because some children in any medium-sized family could be attending school at any time of the year, reducing chances for family vacations.

San Jose Pact...

PST rebroadcast was scheduled.

Before leaving San Jose, Kennedy told a cheering crowd of university students that Cuba is an example of communism's failure to provide for its people. Contrasting the progress of Costa Rica with that of the Communist-controlled Caribbean island, Kennedy said Cuba now produces 25 per cent less food than it did five years ago.

"The myth of the 1950's"—the claim that communism can build a better system—has collapsed, Kennedy said.

"It is our adversaries who must build walls to contain their people," he said.

The crowd at the University of Costa Rica, estimated at 10,000 cheered lustily as Kennedy wound up his speech with: "Viva Costa Rica. Muchas gracias."

Communists of the hemisphere gather next Thursday in Rio de Janeiro, in what will be called "The Continental Congress in Defense of Cuba."

The principal aims will be to plot more aggressive strategy to step up the pace of revolutionary activities, and to rekindle mass sympathy for Fidel Castro's regime.

Moscow propaganda has been paying much attention to this congress. It claims that "hundreds of organizations, political and social personalities, and plain people of Latin America" are rallying to the Castro banner.

In one respect, Moscov's support of the congress is an answer to the Red Chinese, who have been accusing Premier Khrushchev's party of timidity in pushing revolutionary violence in underdeveloped areas. It also can serve the Soviet party as a weapon for countering Peking's influence in Latin America.

The Communists and Castroists—the terms are virtually synonymous—will use the congress to inventory their assets and prospects. Positions of the parties and revolutionary situations, country by country, will be under microscopic analysis in the back-room meetings, while the oratory in the congress hall lays down a smoke-screen.

The Rio meeting is expected to come up with some sort of blueprint for action.

If the congress follows Moscow's general directives for such enterprises, with what the Kremlin calls "the new logic of scientific communism," it will map out those areas where violence will pay off and those areas where struggles for electoral and economic power offer the prospects of better dividends.

A hemisphere Communist meeting held in Mexico in 1961 resulted in refinements in plans and methods of attack. These probably included the combination of terrorism and political conflict adopted in Venezuela, which is considered a prime target.

Bug Bite Case Principals Die

CLEVELAND (AP) — In June 1959, a Common Pleas Court jury awarded James T. Gallick, former Baltimore & Ohio employe, a record $625,000 judgment on his claim that he was bitten by a bug from a stagnant pool near the tracks where he worked.

The case dragged through the courts. Last month the U. S. Supreme Court, upheld the verdict in favor of the B&O freight yard conductor. The court voted 6-3 for Gallick, hospitalized since 1958. His legs had been amputated.

Abe H. Dudnik, the city's leading attorney on personal injury suits, successfully carried the "bug bite" verdict, overturned by a lower court, up to the Supreme Court.

Dudnik died Saturday of cancer. He was 58.

Wednesday night—before he had collected a single cent from the B&O—Gallick died. He was 61.

Gallick was supervising freight car switching in Cleveland's Flats Section when he was bitten by an unidentified insect in 1954, his attorneys contended. Dudnik charged negligence on the part of the railroad in permitting a vermin and insect-ridden pond to exist where Gallick was required to work.

Gallick's entire system became poisoned and ulcerations developed on his body. Both legs were removed and his arms were withering at the time of death. He is survived by his widow and a step-daughter.

Marshall I. Nurenberg, an attorney for Gallick and partner in the Dudnik firm, said Gallick's death will not affect the case.

The railroad this week asked the Court of Appeals for a new trial, alleging that there was tapering with the jury that returned the huge judgment. Nurenberg has filed a counter motion and briefs will be heard by the court Monday.

Pub on Ice
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) —When the Ohio River began freezing over this winter, it brought back memories. The river has frozen over only a few times since the 1890s. In one extended freeze in 1893, people enjoyed the novel experience of hiking across the ice to Indiana and one enterprising tavern-keeper set up a pub at midpoint. He enjoyed a thriving business.

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

One of the most obvious facts of television life to the observant viewer has been the impact of the views of Newton N. Minow, Federal Communications Commission chairman, on television programming and content for the past two seasons.

Minow created a storm when he labeled television a "vast wasteland," and his strong criticism of violence, mayhem, sex, murder, and prolonged fights resulted in a notable diminution of all in network shows.

He called for more and better children's programming—and all three networks responded. He has spoken in favor of more and better public affairs and information shows—and network emphasis has continued on their output in these largely unprofitable commercial areas.

The effect of Minow on television programming, however, is now official. It has been established by a survey ordered by an advertising agency.

A Union City, N.J., agency (Ve-net) reports that a TV rating service (Trendex) queried 100 high-level programming executives—and received answers from 43 of them—on whether Minow's call for more balanced programming and diverse fare had influenced their thinking. Almost half of the 43 admitted it had. The other half insisted they were trying to improve quality before feeling FCC pressures.

Twenty-three per cent of those answering admitted softening their approach to violence but another 25 per cent said violence had no part in the format of their shows anyway.

To a question whether they felt Minow should be discussing programs at all, more than 80 per cent had no objection—the majority feeling that good, constructive criticism was beneficial. About 79 per cent of the 43 said they thought his ideas, in general, had merit.

William E. Simkin, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, told a reporter Wednesday that his agency was working for settlements in 84 strikes at the end of last week, "the lowest weekly total we've had in some time."

Simkin said that on the average last year his service was in contact with about 150 strikes at a given time. Beginning in January the number began to decline.

"But we've got our fingers crossed," Simkin said. "We've got some big ones coming up."

Bali Volcano Toll Is Set At 150 Lives

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — The death toll in the eruption of Agung volcano on Bali Island has reached 150 persons, Indonesia's Red Cross chairman said today.

Sumarno Sosroatmodjo said latest reports from the tropical island indicate some 100 people were injured in Sunday's eruption.

Sumarno said relief workers and supplies have been sent to Bali.

A welfare ministry official said 250,000 people may have to be removed from the disaster area in the northeastern part of the island.

The official said it was believed that most of those who died were caught in the lava flow streaming down the southeast and northeast flank of the 10,800-foot high volcano. To the Balinese, the volcano is center of the universe and seat of the deities.

Agung roared into life Feb. 19 after more than 100 years of silence. Officials said 17 people died in that eruption.

The second eruption Sunday was accompanied by an earthquake, according to the official Indonesian news agency Antara.

The eruption spread thick clouds of volcanic ash westward over the island.

Filling Station Aide Severely Hurt in Blast

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, Ohio (AP) — A 28-year-old filling station attendant was burned Wednesday night in an explosion and fire at the station where he was working.

He was identified as Billy Justus. He was taken to University Hospital in Columbus. He suffered second and third-degree burns over 80 per cent of his body. He was listed in fair condition following surgery. He had been listed in critical condition when he arrived at the hospital.

Justus was draining gasoline from a car which had water in its tank, police said, when the explosion occurred. The cause of the explosion was not determined immediately.

The owner of the car, who was not identified, suffered burns on his hands and face.

The resulting fire damaged the filling station and burned the side of a semi-trailer truck parked in the station yard, police said.

Lausche Bill Under Sharp New Criticism

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio Democratic Sen. Frank J. Lausche's mass transit bill has been criticized by Robert V. Roosa, Treasury undersecretary, as a measure that "would amount to assistance to those who need it least."

Roosa, who testified Wednesday before the Senate Commerce Committee, said he favored the direct approach through grants as provided in the Kennedy administration's mass transit bill.

Lausche's proposal offers two major aids in developing mass transit systems. One would provide federal guarantee of revenue bonds issued by transit agencies and the other would furnish tax concessions.

Tax concessions would be of help only to systems which are now profitable and would in themselves constitute direct federal subsidies, Roosa said.

Lausche commented that he introduced his bill only "as the lesser of two evils," but he added, "Anything is preferable to taking funds directly from the federal treasury for grants."

Weekly Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Housewives will be tempted to celebrate the advent of spring with a beef feast, once they see the price tags at supermarkets this weekend.

In almost all areas, wide variety of beef cuts are offered at lower prices than a week ago.

Heavy winter marketings are the reason.

In the New York area, one national chain offers sirloin steak at 69 cents a pound the lowest price it has posted since 1961.

Chicago meat counters reflect local marketings, which have dropped wholesale prices nine straight weeks. And on the West Coast, prices are generally 2 to 3 cents a pound lower than a year ago.

Pork prices are also down in many stores. Pork loins are selling at a several-year low at some Chicago shops. Tenderloins, chops, bacon and ham are other pork attractions.

Tomatoes have slipped sharply in price in Southeastern and some other markets. The same shops offer radishes at season lows and green beans at bargain prices.

Other items showing up regionally at the best prices include asparagus, spinach, artichokes and rhubarb.

Among fruits, strawberries are appearing in some Southern stores and avocados are lower in price. Apples, bananas and grapefruit are other features.

Clevelanders Press Toward Strike Accord

CLEVELAND (AP) — Afternoon and evening bargaining sessions were planned today by representatives of the Photo Engravers Union and the city's two daily newspapers, which have been shut down by a strike for 112 days.

The Photo Engravers Union has been described as one of two key unions in settling the dispute. The striking Printers Union, the other key union, has all-day negotiations set for Friday.

Negotiations were scheduled today also with the Operating Engineers Union in an intensified bargaining schedule aimed at speeding a settlement.

An official of the striking Machinists Union said after a night bargaining session Wednesday night that his union was close to agreement on a new contract. The official, James Iafelice, business agent, remarked:

"Just a little bit of budging on either side and I think the whole business could be done with."

The union membership at a meeting Monday morning will hear details of management's "counter proposal," Iafelice said, but will not vote on it. The details will be presented at management's request for discussion only, he said, and negotiators will meet again Tuesday.

He declined to give details of the proposal. The union originally asked $15 a week pay increases over a two-year period, which is $5 more than the pattern that has been established in contracts agreed to by six other unions.

Legal Test Faces State Liquor Drive

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Whether the Ohio Board of Liquor Control can revoke permits of establishments with pinball machines is a question that appears headed for a showdown.

Eighteen owners and lessors of such machines and one permit holder filed suit against the board Wednesday in Franklin County Common Pleas Court.

The suit seeks a declaratory judgment as to whether the board has such power, attorney R. Brooke Alloway said. Alloway declined to give the names of the plaintiffs.

In addition to filing the suit, Alloway asked for and was granted a temporary injunction by Judge Dana F. Reynolds. The injunction put into abeyance an order by Liquor Director Donald D. Cook for permit holders to rid themselves of such machines by April 1 or face revocation.

No date was set for further proceedings.

Cook said the Liquor Department had anticipated such action. He indicated he welcomed it, adding: "Perhaps this will resolve the question once and for all."

The suit involves only machines that do not give payoffs in money. The law is clear where gambling actually is involved, attorneys said.

Dudnik died Saturday of cancer. He was 58.

Wednesday night—before he had collected a single cent from the B&O—Gallick died. He was 61.

Gallick was supervising freight car switching in Cleveland's Flats Section when he was bitten by an unidentified insect in 1954, his attorneys contended. Dudnik charged negligence on the part of the railroad in permitting a vermin and insect-ridden pond to exist where Gallick was required to work.

Gallick's entire system became poisoned and ulcerations developed on his body. Both legs were removed and his arms were withering at the time of death. He is survived by his widow and a stepdaughter.

Marshall I. Nuremberg, an attorney for Gallick and partner in the Dudnik firm, said Gallick's death will not affect the case.

The railroad this week asked the Court of Appeals for a new trial, alleging that there was tapering with the jury that returned the huge judgment. Nuremberg has filed a counter motion and briefs will be heard by the court Monday.

Report Is Made To Youth Council

Linda Trimmer reported on the one-day Youth Conference conducted recently at Sheridan High School when the Pickaway County Farm Bureau Youth Council met this week at Logan Elm for a regular session.

The business agenda includes initial plans for a Spring banquet and dance. The date will be announced later.

Leola Harmon, discussion leader, presided during a group talk on "Making and Keeping Friends." Miss Trimmer directed a recreation period. Refreshments and dancing followed.

Pub on Ice
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — When the Ohio River began freezing over this winter, it brought back memories. The river has frozen over only a few times since the 1890s. In one extended freeze in 1893, people enjoyed the novel experience of hiking across the ice to Indiana and one enterprising tavern-keeper set up a pub at midpoint. He enjoyed a thriving business.

Housewives will be tempted to celebrate the advent of spring with a beef feast, once they see the price tags at supermarkets this weekend.

In almost all areas, wide variety of beef cuts are offered at lower prices than a week ago.

Heavy winter marketings are the reason.

In the New York area, one national chain offers sirloin steak at 69 cents a pound the lowest price it has posted since 1961.

Chicago meat counters reflect local marketings, which have dropped wholesale prices nine straight weeks. And on the West Coast, prices are generally 2 to 3 cents a pound lower than a year ago.

Pork prices are also down in many stores. Pork loins are selling at a several-year low at some Chicago shops. Tenderloins, chops, bacon and ham are other pork attractions.

Legal Test Faces State Liquor Drive

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Whether the Ohio Board of Liquor Control can revoke permits of establishments with pinball machines is a question that appears headed for a showdown.

Eighteen owners and lessors of such machines and one permit holder filed suit against the board Wednesday in Franklin County Common Pleas Court.

The suit seeks a declaratory judgment as to whether the board has such power, attorney R. Brooke Alloway said. Alloway declined to give the names of the plaintiffs.

In addition to filing the suit, Alloway asked for and was granted a temporary injunction by Judge Dana F. Reynolds. The injunction put into abeyance an order by Liquor Director Donald D. Cook for permit holders to rid themselves of such machines by April 1 or face revocation.

No date was set for further proceedings.

Cook said the Liquor Department had anticipated such action. He indicated he welcomed it, adding: "Perhaps this will resolve the question once and for all."

The suit involves only machines that do not give payoffs in money. The law is clear where gambling actually is involved, attorneys said.

Filling Station Aide Severely Hurt in Blast

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, Ohio (AP) — A 28-year-old filling station attendant was burned Wednesday night in an explosion and fire at the station where he was working.

He was identified as Billy Justus. He was taken to University Hospital in Columbus. He suffered second and third-degree burns over 80 per cent of his body. He was listed in fair condition following surgery. He had been listed in critical condition when he arrived at the hospital.

Justus was draining gasoline from a car which had water in its tank, police said, when the explosion occurred. The cause of the explosion was not determined immediately.

The owner of the car, who was not identified, suffered burns on his hands and face.

The resulting fire damaged the filling station and burned the side of a semi-trailer truck parked in the station yard, police said.

Lausche Bill Under Sharp New Criticism

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio Democratic Sen. Frank J. Lausche's mass transit bill has been criticized by Robert V. Roosa, Treasury undersecretary, as a measure that "would amount to assistance to those who need it least."

Roosa, who testified Wednesday before the Senate Commerce Committee, said he favored the direct approach through grants as provided in the Kennedy administration's mass transit bill.

Lausche's proposal offers two major aids in developing mass transit systems. One would provide federal guarantee of revenue bonds issued by transit agencies and the other would furnish tax concessions.

Tax concessions would be of help only to systems which are now profitable and would in themselves constitute direct federal subsidies, Roosa said.

Lausche commented that he introduced his bill only "as the lesser of two evils," but he added, "Anything is preferable to taking funds directly from the federal treasury for grants."

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

The genial aide to President Kennedy first briefed newsmen on Jan. 21, 1961, a day after the inauguration of the chief executive.

COOLING OFF PERIOD: Despite the continuing New York and Cleveland newspaper strikes, the labor scene is cooling off, says the man who is the chief government watchdog in this field.

William E. Simkin, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, told a reporter Wednesday that his agency was working for settlements in 84 strikes at the end of last week, "the lowest weekly total we've had in some time."

Simkin said that on the average last year his service was in contact with about 150 strikes at a given time. Beginning in January the number began to decline.

"But we've got our fingers crossed," Simkin said. "We've got some big ones coming up."

Finance two extra trips home each year, at actual cost, in addition to the 20 cents a mile members now get for one round trip per session.

Furnish members three instead of two rent-free offices in their home bailiwicks—if the space can be found in government buildings. Members would continue to get the $1,200 a year they now receive to rent such office space.

Bali Volcano Toll Is Set At 150 Lives

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — The death toll in the eruption of Agung volcano on Bali Island has reached 150 persons, Indonesia's Red Cross chairman said today.

Sumarno Sosroatmodjo said latest reports from the tropical island indicate some 100 people were injured in Sunday's eruption. Sumarno said relief workers and supplies have been sent to Bali.

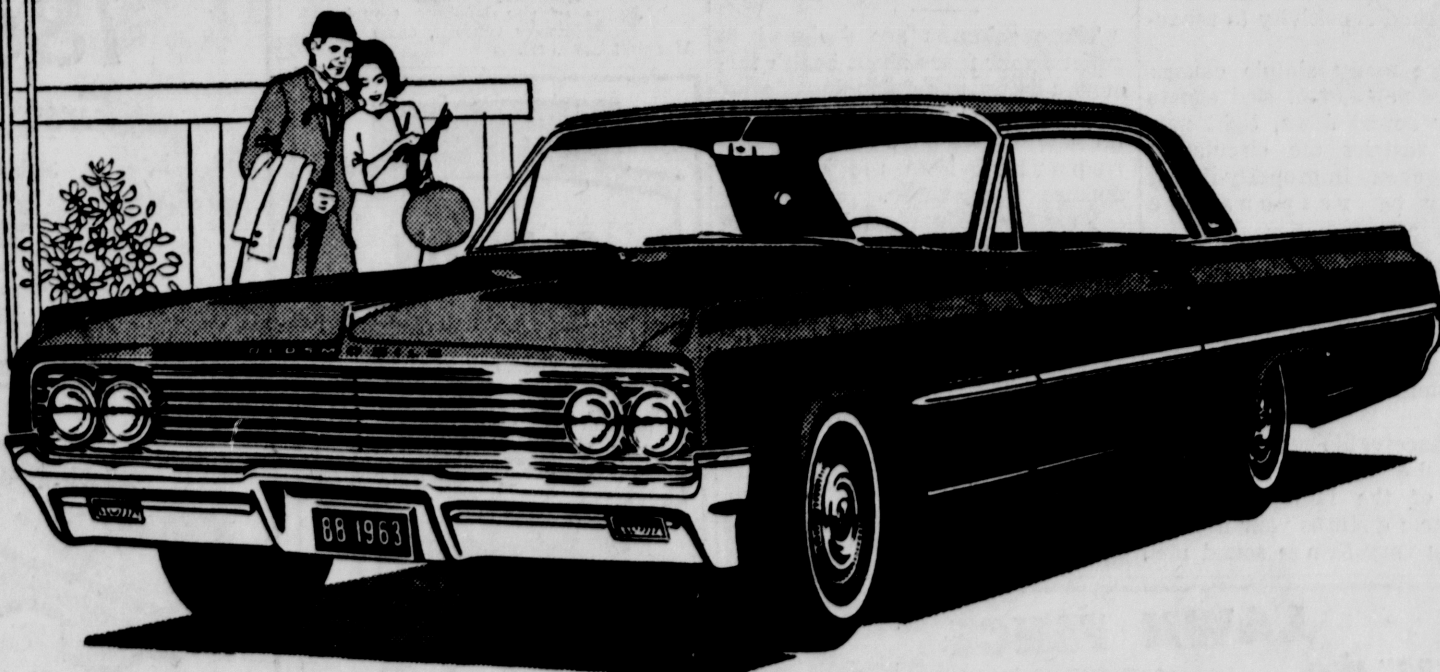

A welfare ministry official said 250,000 people may have to be removed from the disaster area in the northeastern part of the island.

The official said it was believed that most of those who died were caught in the lava flow streaming down the southeast and northeast flank of the 10,903-foot high volcano. To the Balinese, the volcano is center of the universe and seat of the deities.

Agung roared into life Feb. 19 after more than 100 years of silence. Officials said 17 people died in that eruption.

The second eruption Sunday was accompanied by an earthquake, according to the official Indonesian news agency Antara. The eruption spread thick clouds of volcanic ash westward over the island.

What's in a Man's Head May Not Be His To Sell

NEW YORK (AP)—What's in a man's head can belong to someone else.

His knowledge, courts have held, is not necessarily his to sell.

This proposition is being tested anew in a conflict involving a tire company, a girdle maker and a bright young chemical engineer.

The outcome could have broad implications for industry and workers.

At issue is the principle, rooted in English common law, that trade secrets a man learns on the job belong to whoever was paying him at the time.

Knowledge of ingredients and of ways of putting things together or working materials is not the property of the discoverer but belong to his employer, this principle has held.

The new legal action tries to find out exactly how this operates.

The tire company, B. F. Goodrich, is seeking to prevent a former employee, Donald Wohlgenuth, 30, from working in a certain operation of International Latex Corp., the firm that makes Playtex products.

Goodrich says it fears the loss of confidential information about space suits, the field in which Wohlgenuth had worked for Goodrich.

Goodrich said it is pressing the case "in view of the importance to American industry of the legal question involved."

The problem has mushroomed in recent years. Some $15 billion a year is spent on research. Products and processes depend upon complex and intricate information.

Corporations worry that ideas that cost millions might pass out the door into a competitor's plant in the person of a departing employee.

As a result, an increasing number of firms require technical people to sign an agreement not to reveal secrets to a future employer, usually for a stated period of time—six months to two years in most cases.

The line where general information stops and specific, secret information begins is not always easy to draw, however.

The Goodrich case attracts interests for this reason, among others. It involves trying to spell out the secret area in advance, then prevent the newly hired employee from working in it.

This emphasis on restricting before there has been any actual disclosure makes the case something of a bellwether, some legal experts think.

Wohlgenuth, a graduate engineer from the University of Michigan, had been technical manager of space suit development engineering for Goodrich. The firm has been a leader in the field, providing the suits for astronauts in Project Mercury.

International Latex, based at Dover, Del., is a relative newcomer in the field with a new $1.5-million contract for Apollo moon flight outfits. It hired Wohlgenuth, topping his $10,600 a year salary at Goodrich with pay of $13,700.

Goodrich went to court and got an injunction stopping Wohlgenuth from doing any work for Latex.

Latex.

"Until the hiring of Mr. Wohlgenuth," said Goodrich, "it had been the uniform practice of companies in the industry to train their own space suit scientists."

Latex replied that Wohlgenuth had a right to advance his career, said Goodrich was underpaying him for the job he was doing and that Latex merely paid him average rates for his kind of skills.

Further, Latex said its space suit technology was different from—in fact, was farther advanced than—Goodrich's.

Common Pleas Court Judge Frank H. Harvey in Akron, Ohio, where Goodrich is based, ruled after a trial that "the mere fact that a former employee who possesses a trade secret has accepted employment from a rival manufacturer isn't sufficient to warrant an injunction against the employee unless evil intent is shown."

Wohlgenuth, who lives with his wife and child in a new house he bought near the Dover plant, could return to work, the judge said. Goodrich appealed.

Teen-Agers Fib To Get Married; Are Separated

MARION, Ohio (AP) Two Hardin County teen-agers are spending the end of their honeymoon in separate quarters in the Marion County detention home.

Officers said the two were arrested after it was learned they falsified statements in order to obtain a marriage license here March 9. Both are 17 and of Kenton. Their names were not disclosed.

The boy is charged with falsifying his age as 18, stating that his mother was deceased when she is alive and having a man other than his father sign the marriage license application.

The girl is charged with representing Marion as her residence when she is from Kenton.

A hearing is scheduled for March 28.

When 44 Is Too Young

It is once in a blue moon that a young man of 41 or so can throw up his hands in dismay and say he is not old enough to qualify for a job. Usually it is the other way around in this mixed-up world, a planet that seems to encourage businesses to think that anyone over 40 went to school with Bernard Baruch.

The fact is that most businesses will not hire men over 40. They prefer more malleable males (types that can be shaped by hammering) of 32 or 33. Yes, and sometimes 38 or 39, but not very often.

How refreshing it is, therefore, to fix one's eyes on another employer who refuses to conform to such up-to-date thinking. This has happened. Just recently, The employer, a president of a large firm, advertised for a top quality executive who must be at least 45 and who can be as well advanced as 60.

No doubt he was swamped with replies, including some from the 40-44 age protesting that they really look and act older than their years.

Shakespeare had something wise to say about the wonders of middle age, and it would be difficult to disagree with whatever it was. It is life in bloom, and to tell a man of 41 or 42 that he is too old to apply for a good job is to cast gloom over the bloom.

The best men in the country are over 40, as all middle-aged people know. Even personnel people know that, but some of them will not admit it when they are not talking about themselves.

But all is not lost, of course. That is why it is always worthwhile to mention exceptions to rules. The knowledge that only men of 45 or over need apply for a juicy job wipes wrinkles from worried faces, returns the spring to creaking legs, and puts an eager light back into tired eyes.

It makes one feel younger, no matter how old one may be.

A Clutter of Climbed Molehills

NEW YORK (AP)—The poor man's philosopher:

Man has been going steadily downhill ever since he traded the sun dial for a wrist watch.

One of the most placid paths to a ripe old age is along the pavement of postmodernism.

It is better to remember or anticipate a joy or duty than to endure it. Life isn't an insurmountable mountain. It is a clutter of climbed molehills.

Some people make living a continual emergency, as if they were always on the way to a four-alarm fire. They always feel they have more to do than they can cope with, and their reward is the merit badge of the uneasy—an ulcer.

Existence becomes a blossoming glade rather than a bearpit if you learn the pleasant art of postponement. The best philosophy of survival is to live few uncrowded hours.

Give every demand upon your attention a 24-hour perspective. If a thing is worth doing at all, it can be best done in the vast tomorrow rather than the hurried today. One's greatest error is often made while performing the avoidable in doing the unnecessary.

Never attack a peril—and rarely a promise—unless you really have to. Often, if you look at them steadily, they will evaporate. They will go away and leave you undisturbed.

Toy your time with trifles. Then the vast unaccomplished future will loom as a finer treasure trove than your achieved past.

There is considerable pleasure in getting some things done, but there is also a large pleasure in enjoying the prospect of things undone. Everyone should have a larger list of things to be attempted than his catalog of things won.

For example, among my goals are the climbing of the Empire State Building and the reading of Leo Tolstoy's remarkable novel, "War and Peace."

I have met a number of people who have done these things separately, and they all brag about their victories.

But what I have in mind is to be the first man in history to do them at the same time—to go up the Empire State Building and through "War and Peace" step by step.

That is my secret scheme. But why rush into it? It is more fun to think about climbing the Empire State Building while reading "War and Peace" than it is actually to do it.

Living can be a real luxury once you take the urgency out of it.

The Business World

NEW YORK (AP)—The President and the First Lady aren't the only ones with a new house under way or planned. Home construction is rising. And surveys of consumer intentions spread optimism in the building industry.

This is a frequent late winter and early spring tendency. But its early flowering this year is particularly encouraging to those who hope the economy can keep moving ahead under its own power—although any outside assists will be appreciated.

Housing starts in February are put at an annual rate of 1,280,000, up 4 per cent from January. The spurt encourages the Department of Commerce to stick by its earlier predictions that the year as a whole will see some 1,450,000 non-farm housing units started. This will make 1963 as good as last year, one of the best.

Helping bolster their optimism is a continuing rise in various sectors of personal income and polls showing consumer confidence in the economy generally holds high. Manufacturers' payrolls in February took their sharpest rise since last spring. In February factory wages and salaries rose to an annual rate of $94.6 billion, topping the 1962 figure. Earnings of all employees and self-employed persons, up a billion on an annual rate in January, spurred by $2 billion in February.

It is out of such earnings that most mortgages are sought and payments made. And it is the personal income total, now at an annual rate of $450.8 billion, that takes care of household furnishings, whether on a cash or installment basis.

And when total incomes rise, so does confidence—and family planning.

The University of Michigan Survey Research Center says a nationwide poll just completed shows plans are more widespread now than a year ago to buy houses for owner occupancy or to make improvements and repairs on old ones. But the survey cautions that consumer confidence in the future hasn't gained any since its previous poll in November and December.

A more optimistic finding is reported by Martin R. Gainsbrugh, chief economist of the National Industrial Conference Board. His nonprofit research group's latest survey shows more than 45 per cent of the "hundreds of households contacted during the past two months expect the business situation to improve by midyear."

Gainsbrugh says the survey shows home purchasing plans are encouraging and consumer demand in general is strong without signs of faltering.

"WOULDN'T YOU know it?" sighed Dr. Busby. "The worst blizzard in years and at 3 a.m. the patient who lives furthest from the Throughway gets sick and I have to go see him."

Through the snow drifts Dr. Busby fought his way to the side of the stricken man. After examining him, he shook his head gravely, and ordered, "Get your lawyer, your family, and your friends over here on the double!"

When he got back home, Dr. Busby told his wife the instructions he had given. "Poor fellow," she sighed. "Is he really that sick?" "Not at all," grinned Dr. Busby. "He'll be perfectly well in 24 hours. But I was darned if I was going to be the only sucker out on a night like this!"

On a backroad in the South, a tourist stopped for gas and fell into conversation with the slow-moving, but amiable attendant. "What's your name, young fellow?" asked the tourist idly. "Poe," said the attendant. "Any relation of Edgar Allan Poe?" laughed the tourist.

The attendant registered surprise, and said, "Why Ah AM Edgar Allan Poe!"

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Many of us have been awakened at one time or another from a deep, comfortable sleep by a sudden painful cramp in the muscles of the leg. If you have, then you know how distressing, even terrifying, these spasms can be. Although they may last for only a few minutes when they recur frequently they are a source of great anxiety.

Painfully, annoying too, are the cramps that occur while you are awake. The Charley Horse which plagues athletes, falls into this last category.

Cramps are caused by a narrowing or spasm of the arteries that bring nourishing blood and oxygen to the muscles of the legs. These causes are many and varied.

In the elderly, arteriosclerosis is one of the major causes that impair the normal rapid flow of blood. Another condition, a rather peculiar one, occurs in people whose parents come from mid-European countries. It is called "Buerger's Disease," named after the man who first described it.

This is a condition associated with a marked sensitivity to tobacco.

There are many simple causes of leg cramps, too. Bed sheets too tightly bound down, tight garters that restrict the circulation of blood, even improperly-fitting shoes may be responsible for leg cramps.

In most instances, night cramps are more uncomfortable than serious. However, if they persist, the exact cause should be determined and removed. These leg cramps cry for attention and refuse to be neglected.

Every conceivable suggestion has been made by solicitous members of the family when a painful spasm disturbs your night's sleep. They vary from sound me-

Americans Have Brains

By John Chamberlain

A common impression is that Europeans are better at fundamental, or "pure," science, while Americans excel at the business of putting basic scientific discoveries to practical use. But the reverse, in this strange period of the "Americanization" of Europe and the "Europeanization" of America is probably coming to be true.

One indication of the shift in scientific climate came when a British chemist, Dr. C. A. Bunton, announced he was quitting a 20-year post at University College in London to join the faculty of the University of California. In the course of explaining his reasons for becoming an emigre, Dr. Bunton pointed to the widespread exodus of British scientists and chemists. They have been moving to the United States and Canada at the rate of 600 a year. The phenomenon has had the Tory peer, Lord Hailsham, sufficiently worried to make it a subject for political inquiry.

The movement of British scientists to America points to a most important conclusion: that the conditions for conducting basic research are better in the United States than in England. This is indeed a switch from the days when a British scientist, Michael Faraday, was elaborating the fundamental laws of electro-magnetism and the Americans, Samuel F. B. Morse, and Thomas Edison, were busy translating Faraday's basic discoveries into such things as the commercial telegraph and the central station power house.

The change in the climate affecting basic research is more or less proved by the list of Nobel Prize winners over the years. The first Nobel Prizes for scientific discovery in physics, chemistry and medicine were given in 1901. In all the years extending from 1901, to 1930, only four American scientists, Dr. Arthur Compton, Dr. Albert A. Millikan, physicists and chemists, were honored. They joined Woodrow Wilson, C. G. Dawes, Theodore Roosevelt and Elihu Root, winners of the Nobel Peace Prize, on an honor roll that was heavily weighted with the names of such illustrious Europeans as Albert Einstein, the discoverer of relativity, Pierre and Marie Curie, pioneers in radium research, Niels Bohr, the atomic physicist, and Sir Ernest Rutherford, the British chemist. By actual count, British and continental European physicists, chemists and medical Nobel Prize winners had a lengthy five to four lead over Americans in the 1901-1930 period.

Technically, two prize winners, Alexis Carrel and Karl Landsteiner, might be called Americans, since they were living here when they got their awards. But Carrel was born in France and Landsteiner in Austria. A couple of Canadians and an Indian were honored in the same 1901-1930 era.

After 1930 the whole preponderance began to alter. Between 1931 and 1962 some fifty American scientists, a handful of them foreign born, were scientific Nobel Prize winners. This compared very favorably with a total count of some eighty for the rest of the world, Russia and China included. While the big scientific shift was going on, Americans also began to win more and more Nobel Prizes for literature. There were no Americans honored for achievement in letters before 1930. But, beginning with Sinclair Lewis in that year, the recognition of American writers came with increasing frequency throughout the period of the depression and in the years subsequent to World War II. Meanwhile, quite a number of Americans won the Nobel Peace Prize.

The old stereotype of a United States devoid of basic intellectual interests lingers in many quarters. But the stereotype is demonstrably false. It hasn't served as an accurate description for thirty years.

While the great shift of basic intellect has been going on, another curious thing has been happening: Europeans have been behaving like old-fashioned Yankee tinkers in applying fundamental scientific knowledge to industrial processes. For instance the world's first completely automated hot strip steel mill is being built, not in Pittsburgh or Chicago, but by the Spencer Works of Richard Thomas and Baldwins, Ltd., at Llanwern, Wales.

True enough, America's General Electric is supplying control equipment for this. But the mill itself is European. And when Cluett, Peabody, the American shirtings makers, began to do advanced research on textiles, they found it expedient to set up a laboratory in Switzerland, which happened to be close to the center of the latest developments in the textile arts.

There are 1,891 communities with council-manager form of government in the United States and Canada.

Dear Abby: Notice to Teen-Agers!

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We are unable to convince our teen-aged daughter that it is bad taste to show affection in public. I'm talking about the sickening behavior one sees today between young people going steady. She thinks it's all right to hang on to a boy and put her arm around his waist while he does the same when they walk down the street. Also, because "everyone else does it" she sees nothing wrong with sitting practically on his lap while he drives the car. If we tell her it looks bad, she says we are living in the dark ages. She'll take your word for it, Abby, so please enlighten her, along with a few million others.

EXASPERATED

DEAR EXASPERATED: This is for all the vulnerable parties: Please, young lovers, wherever you are, believe me, it IS in the poorest taste to act lovey-dovey in public. A boy who respects a girl will not initiate it, and a girl who respects herself will not encourage it. So hands off. And I mean 100 per cent off.

DEAR ABBY: Last fall a distant relative of ours started sending us a religious paper. Our family is not of that religion and we do not enjoy reading it. I know this relative meant well, but we are not interested in being "converted" and this paper seems to have that as its purpose. Should we let this relative continue sending it? The paper must cost something and I'm sure the postage does. We just throw it away without even looking at it. Or should we write and tell him to quit sending it?

MINNIE-APPOLIS

DEAR MINNIE-APPOLIS: Write

to your relative and tell him you appreciate his thoughtfulness — but you and your family are not interested in the paper so he shouldn't waste the time and money to send it.

DEAR ABBY: The item in your column about how to tell an "eight year-old blabbermouth" that he was going to have a little brother or sister brought back memories. When our little boy was eight I was expecting a baby, and it was quite apparent. So I told him a new arrival was on the way. He said "Let ME tell Daddy about it when he comes home from work." He was so disappointed when I told him that Daddy already knew.

What's in a Man's Head May Not Be His To Sell

NEW YORK (AP)—What's in a man's head can belong to someone else.

His knowledge, courts have held, is not necessarily his to sell.

This proposition is being tested anew in a conflict involving a tire company, a girdle maker and a bright young chemical engineer.

The outcome could have broad implications for industry and workers.

At issue is the principle, rooted in English common law, that trade secrets a man learns on the job belong to whoever was paying him at the time.

Knowledge of ingredients and of ways of putting things together or working materials is not the property of the discoverer but belong to his employer, this principle has held.

The new legal action tries to find out exactly how this operates.

The tire company, B. F. Goodrich, is seeking to prevent a former employee, Donald Wohlgenuth, 30, from working in a certain operation of International Latex Corp., the firm that makes Playtex products.

Goodrich says it fears the loss of confidential information about space suits, the field in which Wohlgenuth had worked for Goodrich.

Goodrich said it is pressing the case "in view of the importance to American industry of the legal question involved."

The problem has mushroomed in recent years. Some $15 billion a year is spent on research. Products and processes depend upon complex and intricate information.

Corporations worry that ideas that cost millions might pass out the door into a competitor's plant in the person of a departing employee.

As a result, an increasing number of firms require technical people to sign an agreement not to reveal secrets to a future employer, usually for a stated period of time—six months to two years in most cases.

The line where general information stops and specific, secret information begins is not always easy to draw, however.

The Goodrich case attracts interests for this reason, among others. It involves trying to spell out the secret area in advance, then prevent the newly hired employee from working in it.

This emphasis on restricting before there has been any actual disclosure makes the case something of a bellwether, some legal experts think.

Wohlgenuth, a graduate engineer from the University of Michigan, had been technical manager of space suit development engineering for Goodrich. The firm has been a leader in the field, providing the suits for astronauts in Project Mercury.

International Latex, based at Dover, Del., is a relative newcomer in the field with a new $1.5-million contract for Apollo moon flight outfits. It hired Wohlgenuth, topping his $10,600 a year salary at Goodrich with pay of $13,700. Goodrich went to court and got an injunction stopping Wohlgenuth from doing any work for Latex.

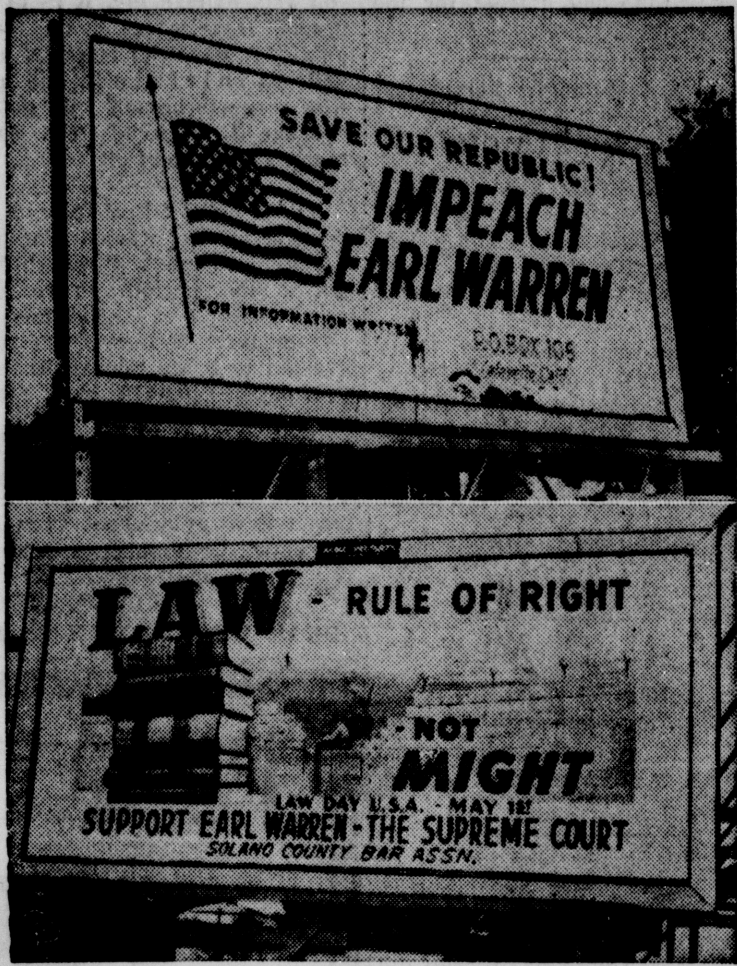

"Until the hiring of Mr. Wohlgenuth," said Goodrich, "it had been the uniform practice of companies in the industry to train their own space suit scientists."

Latex replied that Wohlgenuth had a right to advance his career, said Goodrich was underpaying him for the job he was doing and that Latex merely paid him average rates for his kind of skills.

Further, Latex said its space suit technology was different from —in fact, was farther advanced than—Goodrich's.

Common Pleas Court Judge Frank H. Harvey in Akron, Ohio, where Goodrich is based, ruled after a trial that "the mere fact that a former employee who possesses a trade secret has accepted employment from a rival manufacturer isn't sufficient to warrant an injunction against the employee unless evil intent is shown."

Wohlgenuth, who lives with his wife and child in a new house he bought near the Dover plant, could return to work, the judge said. Goodrich appealed.

Common Mart Threatens U.S. Farm Exports

American Poultry Sales Hard Hit; Grain May Be Hurt Next

BRUSSELS (AP)—Western Europe's Common Market, fostered by Uncle Sam, has grown into a self-assertive teen-ager who has the old man worried.

The Common Market's system of customs duties threatens the market for American farm products in Western Europe. Its members, especially France, want to produce more of these products instead of buying them abroad.

In 1961 the United States shipped $1.6 billion worth of farm goods to the Common Market countries — France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg. Preliminary figures indicate the total was even higher in 1962.

Present plans of the Common Market authorities could up this by a third or more.

Sales of American cotton and tobacco are not much threatened. Common Market members produce little of these.

Sales of American poultry have been hard-hit and grain may be next on the list.

After World War II Americans were saying that Europe could get out of its vicious circle of poverty and war only if it broke down old trade barriers at national frontiers. Europeans, it was argued, should be brought into one big market so European businessmen could give the consumer mass-produced goods at low prices. It would be economical for European countries, with their smaller farm area and many tiny plots of ground, to concentrate on dairy and meat production. Grains could be bought much more cheaply abroad.

These ideas appealed to many Europeans, and the Common Market is now formed and moving toward unity in many ways. But when it comes to farming, things are not working out as the United States might have liked.

A series of variable levies can make any farm import sell a little higher—or, if desired, a whole lot higher—than the home-grown variety.

Last summer the new Common Market levies went into effect on chicken. Entrance fees for American poultry shot up 250 per cent, to 12.5 cents a pound. American exports dropped off.

West German housewives now pay about 44 cents a pound for chicken. The American product could be sold for 25 per cent less if it were not for the levies.

European consumers are being denied a bargain but the Common Market chicken farmers are cleaning up. American chicken farmers face the loss of $50 million of business a year.

Even more money is involved in U.S. exports of grain and grain products to the Common Market—$389 million in 1961. Here too the levies have begun to be felt. Eggs and pork are also affected.

The most recent figures of the U.S. Department of Agriculture show a 26 per cent decline in exports of these products to the Common Market in the four-month period after the levies went into effect. The decline is in comparison with the same four-month period in 1961.

The Common Market aims to set up uniform prices throughout the six countries for wheat and other grains. If the price is set high, farmers inside the Common Market will put even more land into grain, and produce so much that substantial imports won't be needed.

Right now the French government supports wheat prices at about $2.15 a bushel, and the West German government at about $3. American farmers often sell wheat at $2 or less.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

Although the calendar declared it to be spring, the weather was still wintry over Ohio today.

Temperatures were below the freezing mark at all points except along the Ohio River and snow flurries were general.

Cincinnati reported 31 early today while Chesapeake had 45, but to the north Toledo was 27 and Youngstown 26.

Strong northwest winds will continue today and cloudiness and snow flurries will cover the state. With partial clearing expected tonight, temperatures will drop into the middle and low 20s.

Friday will be mostly sunny with temperatures in the 40s in the afternoon.

A 2500 Square Foot Bag of Turf Builder for 95c

Have a richer, thicker, crabgrass-free lawn this year. Apply Scotts remarkable HALTS to form a lasting barrier to keep crabgrass from coming up. (It won't harm grass seed or seedling grass!)

A feed with Scotts famous TURFBUILDER at the same time will thicken the grass and encourage it spreading, and strengthen root growth.

How do you save money? Buy a 2500 sq. ft. bag of Turfbuilder and a bag of Halts, and you get $2.00 off the total, making the Turfbuilder cost only 95c.

Wheat Vote Is Linked to Farm Future

NEW YORK (AP) — President Kennedy said in a recorded statement today that results of a referendum to be held soon on a new wheat control program will show whether farmers want a national policy of farm supply and farm income stabilization.

The statement was sent here for the convention of the National Farmers Union.

The referendum—probably to be conducted late in May—will give the nation's wheat growers a chance to approve or reject a plan which would impose tighter limitations on production than exist now and would set up a dual price system. Approval by at least two-thirds of those voting is required to make it effective.

Kennedy broadened the issue to include his administration's entire farm policy.

The Farmers Union has been a staunch supporter of those policies and its leaders supported him for president.

Belmont Sheriff Faces New Bribery Trial

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio (AP)—A new trial date of April 22 has been set in the case of Sheriff George E. Neff of Belmont County. He faces charges of attempting to solicit bribes from officers of four private clubs in Barnesville.

A trial last month in Belmont County Common Pleas Court resulted in a hung jury.

commodity supply and production control measures to halt surplus output, to improve farm income and to cut costs of farm programs to taxpayers. Present programs have been costing well over $3 billion a year.

Kennedy ran in 1960 on a platform promising stronger federal farm programs. But he has run into strong opposition in efforts to get his policies translated into law. Opposing him have been the American Farm Bureau Federation and many Republicans and some Democrats in Congress.

Dear Abby: Notice to Teen-Agers!

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We are unable to convince our teen-aged daughter that it is bad taste to show affection in public. I'm talking about the sickening behavior one sees today between young people going steady. She thinks it's all right to hang on to a boy and put her arm around his waist while he does the same when they walk down the street. Also, because "everyone else does it" she sees nothing wrong with sitting practically on his lap while he drives the car. If we tell her it looks bad, she says we are living in the dark ages. She'll take your word for it, Abby, so please enlighten her, along with a few million others.

EXASPERATED
DEAR EXASPERATED: This is for all the vulnerable parties: Please, young lovers, wherever you are, believe me, it IS in the poorest taste to act lovey-dovey in public. A boy who respects a girl will not initiate it, and a girl who respects herself will not encourage it. So hands off. And I mean 100 per cent off.

DEAR ABBY: Last fall a distant relative of ours started sending us a religious paper. Our family is not of that religion and we do not enjoy reading it. I know this relative meant well, but we are not interested in being "converted" and this paper seems to have that as its purpose. Should we let this relative continue sending it? The paper must cost something and I'm sure the postage does. We just throw it away without even looking at it. Or should we write and tell him to quit sending it?

MINNIE-APPOLIS
DEAR MINNIE-APPOLIS: Write

to your relative and tell him you appreciate his thoughtfulness — but you and your family are not interested in the paper so he shouldn't waste the time and money to send it.

DEAR ABBY: The item in your column about how to tell an "eight year-old blabbermouth" that he was going to have a little brother or sister brought back memories. When our little boy was eight I was expecting a baby, and it was quite apparent. So I told him a new arrival was on the way. He said "Let ME tell Daddy about it when he comes home from work." He was so disappointed when I told him that Daddy already knew. MIRIAM

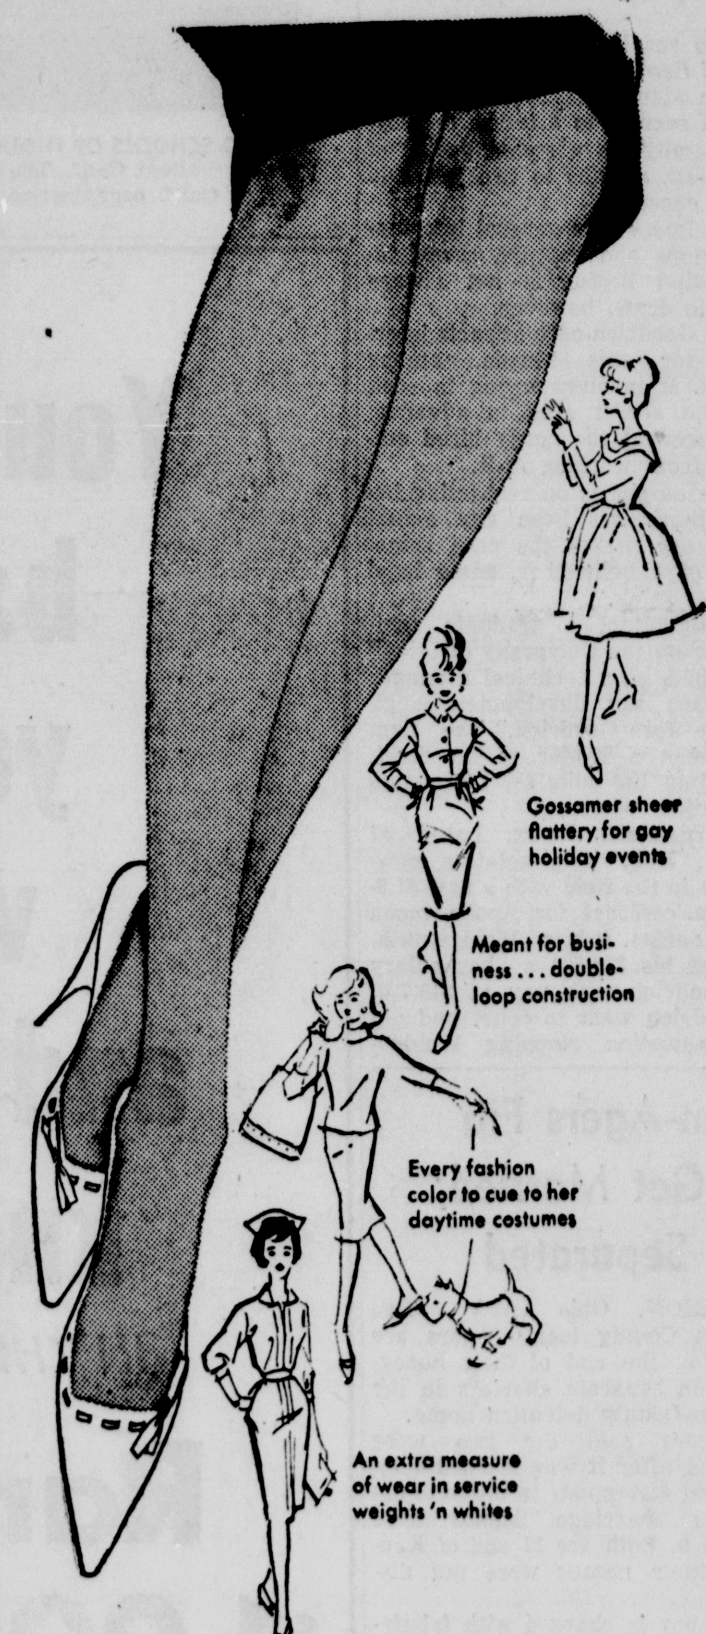

Stop worrying. Write to Abby. For a personal reply enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Sign of Red Flag Indicates Popular Auction Scheduled

By AURELA CARRISON
Central Press Association
Correspondent

WASHINGTON — To the uninitiated, a red flag hanging outside a show window may seem as though someone is openly flaunting the Communist banner, but to those in the know, it merely means that an auction is going to be held on the premises.

Not many people are familiar with the origin of the red auction flag. In the days gone by, when Arab tribes raided other tribes, all of their stolen goods were gathered together, piled high and topped with a red flag. This meant that the sale was on, and this was to become the granddaddy of all sales.

Now, at most auction rooms here, you can't tell a bandit from a buyer. The socially elite rub elbows with diplomats, dealers and housewives, all in search of what may be a priceless antique or just plain old bargain.

During the summer, auction fever is on the wane, although some good bargains are to be had. That is the time to purchase that set

Boy Anxious To Use His Patched Arm

SOMERVILLE, Mass. (AP)—Everett Knowles is a restless 13-year-old.

"One thing I can't stand," he says, "is just standing still."

The red-haired youngster has kept moving, kept progressing further along the road toward full use of his once-severed right arm.

He reached another milestone Tuesday when the cast was removed from his arm.

And he can move all five fingers of his right hand.

He can move his wrist in one direction and has some feeling in his upper arm.

Massachusetts General Hospital, where the arm, completely severed by a train last May 23 was restored in an historic operation issued a statement:

"Although it is still too early to make predictions about the ultimate extent of recovery there are some hopeful signs.

"Movement of all five fingers of the right hand indicates regeneration of the median nerve as far as the upper forearm muscles that control finger flexion.

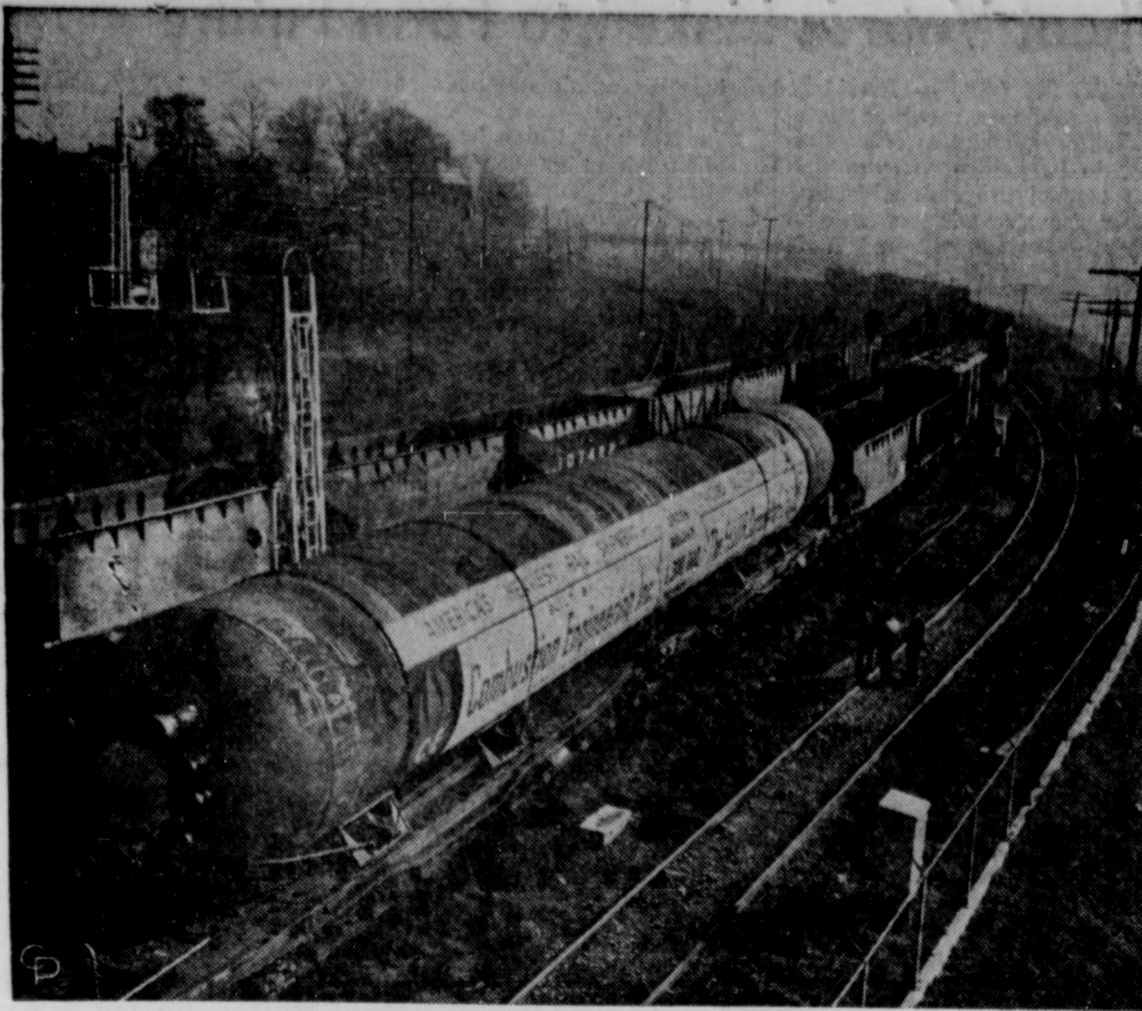

"There is a suggestion that the ulnar nerve has grown to the same level."

The median and ulnar nerves are the two which control the principal functions of the arm.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — So far the Russians are ahead on Cuba, now their satellite in this hemisphere. But they look stuck with it, even if they wanted out.

The United States seems baffled on how to rid the island of them, Fidel Castro and communism in general. Even excited congressional cries to do something, like a blockade, have melted away.

President Kennedy pointing out a blockade might mean war with Russia, has promised to tighten antisubversion rings around Cuba. What that meant isn't clear.

Neither he nor the six Central American presidents who met with him this week in Costa Rica suggested direct action. But it's hard to see what else will work so long as Russia keeps Castro afloat with supplies and protection.

The State Department, meanwhile, strongly opposed hit-and-run raids on the island by Cuban refugees. Two refugee groups reportedly raided over the weekend and killed or wounded some Russians.

The mess will get worse if the forays continue and the Russians pursue the raiders with ships and planes. At the same time, without such tangible evidence of support, anti-Castroites in Cuba may give up.

The presence of 15,000 or so Russian troops in Cuba is frustrating in more ways than one hemisphere:

1. So long as Castro is boss and wants them, this country can't argue they have forced their way in.

2. Since U.S. officials have said the Russian troops are not a direct threat, this country can't use self-protection to excuse direct action.

3. Direct action, since Russian troops would be involved or endangered, would head straight for war with Russia.

4. Too much pious American outrage at the Russians' presence would be unconvincing. American troops are involved in fighting Communists in Viet Nam.

So, while Premier Khrushchev was embarrassed when Kennedy forced him to remove his Cuban missiles, he has embarrassed Kennedy with his troops.

Since neither Kennedy nor anyone else has suggested a quick solution, the American embarrassment should go on indefinitely.

It's additionally galling to know the Russian troops are life insurance for Castro in case the Cuban people wanted to throw him out.

There's another side to the coin:

Castro, since he must depend on Russian economic and military protection for survival, has to be subservient to Russian wishes.

This makes him a puppet. Puppets can be discarded. The Russians, no dopes, must have several other Cuban Communists ready to replace Castro if he balks.

At the same time Cuba, under the Russian wing, is now a training ground for Communists from other Latin-American countries.

Once they graduate they can return home to display their scholarship, with guns, money, propaganda and political and military organization.

Keeping them from returning home seems to be the antisubversion ring Kennedy is talking of tightening.

If by this time the Russians are wishing they weren't so deeply involved in a place so far from Russia as Cuba, there seems little they can do.

They are under pressure not to desert Castro. The Red Chinese already have branded the Russians as chicken Communists.

For the Russians to let Castro fall or fail would be to prove the Chinese right before the rest of the Communist world.

Besides, since Cuba is the first Communist foothold in the Americas, its survival has real and symbolic importance.

The end of communism in Cuba would be a disheartening blow to communism and Communists everywhere in Latin America.

Perhaps the best thing so far to come out of the fear of the spread of communism from Cuba is the realization by American and Latin-American politicians that more Latin-American economic and social progress is needed faster.

Common Mart Threatens U.S. Farm Exports

American Poultry Sales Hard Hit; Grain May Be Hurt Next

BRUSSELS (AP)—Western Europe's Common Market, fostered by Uncle Sam, has grown into a self-assertive teen-ager who has the old man worried.

The Common Market's system of customs duties threatens the market for American farm products in Western Europe. Its members, especially France, want to produce more of these products instead of buying them abroad.

In 1961 the United States shipped $1.6 billion worth of farm goods to the Common Market countries — France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg. Preliminary figures indicate the total was even higher in 1962.

Present plans of the Common Market authorities could up this by a third or more.

Sales of American cotton and tobacco are not much threatened. Common Market members produce little of these.

Sales of American poultry have been hard-hit and grain may be next on the list.

After World War II Americans were saying that Europe could get out of its vicious circle of poverty and war only if it broke down old trade barriers at national frontiers. Europeans, it was argued, should be brought into one big market so European businessmen could give the consumer mass-produced goods at low prices. It would be economical for European countries, with their smaller farm area and many tiny plots of ground, to concentrate on dairy and meat production. Grains could be bought much more cheaply abroad.

These ideas appealed to many Europeans, and the Common Market is now formed and moving toward unity in many ways. But when it comes to farming, things are not working out as the United States might have liked.

A series of variable levies can make any farm import sell a little higher—or, if desired, a whole lot higher—than the home-grown variety.

Last summer the new Common Market levies went into effect on chicken. Entrance fees for American poultry shot up 250 per cent, to 12.5 cents a pound. American exports dropped off.

West German housewives now pay about 44 cents a pound for chicken. The American product could be sold for 25 per cent less if it were not for the levies.

European consumers are being denied a bargain but the Common Market chicken farmers are cleaning up. American chicken farmers face the loss of $50 million of business a year.

Even more money is involved in U.S. exports of grain and grain products to the Common Market—$389 million in 1961. Here too the levies have begun to be felt. Eggs and pork are also affected.

The most recent figures of the U.S. Department of Agriculture show a 26 per cent decline in exports of these products to the Common Market in the four-month period after the levies went into effect. The decline is in comparison with the same four-month period in 1961.

The Common Market aims to set up uniform prices throughout the six countries for wheat and other grains. If the price is set high, farmers inside the Common Market will put even more land into grain, and produce so much that substantial imports won't be needed.

Right now the French government supports wheat prices at about $2.15 a bushel, and the West German government at about $3. American farmers often sell wheat at $2 or less.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

Although the calendar declared it to be spring, the weather was still wintry over Ohio today.

Temperatures were below the freezing mark at all points except along the Ohio River and snow flurries were general.

Cincinnati reported 31 early today while Chesapeake had 45, but to the north Toledo was 27 and Youngstown 26.

Strong northwest winds will continue today and cloudiness and snow flurries will cover the state. With partial clearing expected tonight, temperatures will drop into the middle and low 20s.

Friday will be mostly sunny with temperatures in the 40s in the afternoon.

George Washington and Thomas Jefferson advocated using the metric system for measures in 1790.

Wheat Vote Is Linked to Farm Future

NEW YORK (AP)—President Kennedy said in a recorded statement today that results of a referendum to be held soon on a new wheat control program will show whether farmers want a national policy of farm supply and farm income stabilization.

The statement was sent here for the convention of the National Farmers Union.

The referendum—probably to be conducted late in May—will give the nation's wheat growers a chance to approve or reject a plan which would impose tighter limitations on production than exist now and would set up a dual price system. Approval by at least two-thirds of those voting is required to make it effective.

Kennedy broadened the issue to include his administration's entire farm policy.

The Farmers Union has been a staunch supporter of those policies and its leaders supported him for president.

The Kennedy farm policies envision broad farmer-approved commodity supply and production control measures to halt surplus output, to improve farm income and to cut costs of farm programs to taxpayers. Present programs have been costing well over $3 billion a year.

Kennedy ran in 1960 on a platform promising stronger federal farm programs. But he has run into strong opposition in efforts to get his policies translated into law. Opposing him have been the American Farm Bureau Federation and many Republicans and some Democrats in Congress.

VANISHES FIFTH TIME—Mrs. Steven Gilbert of Los Angeles reported her 42-year-old husband (above) had disappeared for the fifth time in four years. An investigation revealed Steven Gilbert of Los Angeles also is Cornelius Charles Cornelisse of Garwood, N.J., who wandered off from his wife and three children Sept. 6, 1955. New Jersey authorities declared him legally dead in February. He is being hunted. One of his doctors blamed his memory lapses on "epileptic amnesia" another said a brain lobe seizure caused the trouble.

Taxable Property Values on Climb

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Appraised value of Ohio taxable real estate, public utility and personal property increased 2.7 per cent to $29.3 billion in 1962, State Auditor Roger W. Tracy reported today.

Real estate valuations set the pace with a total of $18.6 billion, up 3.5 per cent over the previous year. Public utility valuations were fixed at $3.8 billion, a 4.2 per cent increase, and tangible personal property values amounted to $6.9 billion, a slight hike of .2 of 1 per cent.

Tracy said 1962 tax collections were made on 1961 valuations of real estate and public utility properties, while 1962 valuations were used for personal property.

Soviet Claims U.S. Condone French A-Test

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet Union has charged that the reported French nuclear test in the Sahara helped to develop arms for the Western powers and was condoned by the United States.

Soviet Ambassador Semyon K. Tsarapkin angrily denounced the French test at a meeting of the 17-nation disarmament conference. Canada, India and the United Arab Republic joined in the protests.

France, boycotting the conference since it opened a year ago, has not confirmed reports that it tested a nuclear device Monday.

Tsarapkin declared that the French government had flaunted the U.N. General Assembly's call for an end to all testing by Jan. 1, 1963.

"It is characteristic that the Western delegations, and particularly the United States delegation, did not find a word to condemn the French test. This silence shows that France, by testing nuclear weapons, has made its contribution to the arms development of the Western bloc and to the nuclear armaments race in general," he said.

U.S. Ambassador Charles C. Stelle urged the Soviet delegation to "change its rigid and unreasonable position and begin discussing the major issues involved in reaching agreement on a test ban, rather than insist that discussion be limited to the question of numbers of inspections and its own numbers at that."

Migrant Ag Workers May Appear Early

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Some transient farm workers may come to Ohio earlier than usual this year, and there probably will be 13,000 to 15,000 during the peak season, the Governor's Committee on Migrant Labor has been advised.

James J. Byrne, chief of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation's farm placement division and a committee member, said a seasonably cold weather, which affected some crops in the South, may result in a few migratory workers coming to Ohio early.

The total during the peak season probably will not be too far off the usual number, he indicated at Tuesday's meeting. But he added that it is not always easy to predict.

The committee, organized in 1955, and which has about 35 members, re-elected all of its officers Tuesday, including Chairman E. E. Richard, general manager for the H. J. Heinz Co. in Bowling Green.

Dave L. Sunderland, manager of Northern Ohio Sugar Co., Fremont, and first chairman of the committee, said the Interstate Commerce Commission will start next month to check all trucks bringing migratory workers to Ohio to make sure all safety standards are met.

An auction room crowded with customers—everyone in high hopes of acquiring a bargain.

Sign of Red Flag Indicates Popular Auction Scheduled

By AURELA CARRISON
Central Press Association
Correspondent

WASHINGTON — To the uninitiated, a red flag hanging outside a show window may seem as though someone is openly flaunting the Communist banner, but to those in the know, it merely means that an auction is going to be held on the premises.

Not many people are familiar with the origin of the red auction flag. In the days gone by, when Arab tribes raided other tribes, all of their stolen goods were gathered together, piled high and topped with a red flag. This meant that the sale was on, and this was to become the granddaddy of all sales.

Now, at most auction rooms here, you can't tell a bandit from a buyer. The socially elite rub elbows with diplomats, dealers and housewives, all in search of what may be a priceless antique or just plain old bargain.

During the summer, auction fever is on the wane, although some good bargains are to be had. That is the time to purchase that set of andirons that you have been wanting for your fireplace. Not many people have andirons on their mind while they are in the midst of a heat wave.

Both the bankers and the auctioneers find the wintertime auction to be the most lucrative, and it is then that the properties from big estates are put on the auction block.

At the auction houses, reputable auctioneers give the public a chance to preview the items that are to be placed on sale in the near future. All of the items are carefully described, numbered and catalogued.

On the day of the auction, the customers are seated, while the auctioneer works from a small central stage. Bidding is always fast, spirited and always entertaining.

Newcomers to the game should get some bidding pointers from someone who already has the know-how, because the pitfalls are many.

Should you excitedly jump up from your chair, pull your earlobe or wink because you have something in your eye, your actions may be misconstrued as a bid, and you are liable to end up with a big gilt Buddha with a clock in his belly. Just what you have always wanted!

Dealers are known to disguise their bidding, but the auctioneer knows what is going on. To make their bids, dealers will adjust their spectacles, nod their heads slightly, pull their earlobes, or open and shut their catalogs, etc. If you can outbid a dealer, chances are that you've got yourself a bargain.

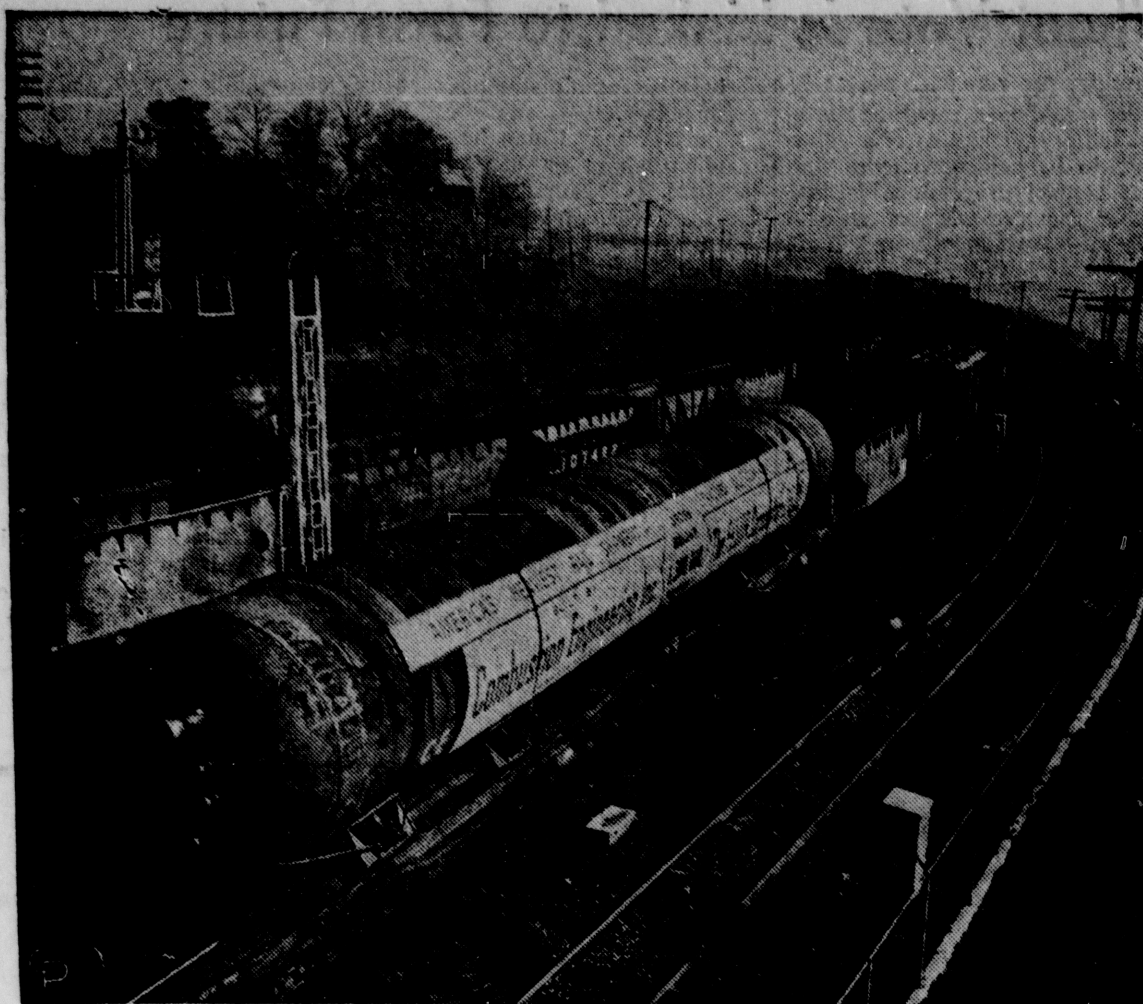

One thing in favor of any bidder is that he can question the auctioneer at any time during the bidding. He may ask to have a description repeated, a bid verified, or anything else that pertains to the sale item.

An important thing to remember while bidding is this: Bear in mind that the delivery and possible repair on furniture will add to the cost of your "bargain." Also items such as jewelry and silver are subject to federal taxes. It is best to set yourself a limit on the amount that you want to bid for an item, or else your bargain will end up by becoming an expensive impulse.

Even if you attend an auction merely as an onlooker, the end result can be very entertaining. Auctioneers have been known to dispose of such items as an unused tombstone, coffins, rare jewels, mules or Marie Antoinette's sedan chair.

One famous auction house has as its slogan, "The Trash of One Generation Becomes the Treasures of Another."

This has repeatedly proven to be true. So beware — don't bring home that wooden Indian — unless you need it.

Real Estate Tax Issue Tied Up by Panel

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A bill aimed at getting some publicly owned real estate back on the tax lists was amended once but still didn't get out of the Ohio House Taxation Committee Wednesday.

The bill, sponsored by Reps. William H. Rychener, R - Fulton, and Ralph D. Cole Jr., R - Hancock, would make tax-exempt public property — made available for profitable use by private persons—subject to the same taxes as privately held real estate.

It will be heard for the fourth time by the committee next week.

The amendment approved Wednesday removes any time factor in the exemption for property of state tax-supported higher education institutions.

Rep. Keith McNamara, R-Franklin, said it is intended to prevent a tax burden on contractors who build dormitories for universities and receive repayment over an extended period.

C. Emory Glander, representing the Ohio-West Virginia Area Council of the YMCA, urged additional amendment to specifically exempt property used exclusively for charitable purposes. Rychener said he is having a constitutional attorney study the proposal before next week.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — So far the Russians are ahead on Cuba, now their satellite in this hemisphere. But they look stuck with it, even if they wanted out.

The United States seems baffled on how to rid the island of them, Fidel Castro and communism in general. Even excited congressional cries to do something, like a blockade, have melted away.

President Kennedy pointing out a blockade might mean war with Russia, has promised to tighten antisubversion rings around Cuba. What that means isn't clear.

Neither he nor the six Central American presidents who met with him this week in Costa Rica suggested direct action. But it's hard to see what else will work so long as Russia keeps Castro afloat with supplies and protection.

The State Department, meanwhile, strongly opposed hit-and-run raids on the island by Cuban refugees. Two refugee groups reportedly raided over the weekend and killed or wounded some Russians.

The mess will get worse if the forays continue and the Russians pursue the raiders with ships and planes. At the same time, without such tangible evidence of support, anti-Castroites in Cuba may give up.

The presence of 15,000 or so Russian troops in Cuba is frustrating in more ways than one hemisphere:

1. So long as Castro is boss and wants them, this country can't argue they have forced their way in.

2. Since U.S. officials have said the Russian troops are not a direct threat, this country can't use self-protection to excuse direct action.

3. Direct action, since Russian troops would be involved or endangered, would head straight for war with Russia.

4. Too much pious American outrage at the Russians' presence would be unconvincing. American troops are involved in fighting Communists in Viet Nam.

So, while Premier Khrushchev was embarrassed when Kennedy forced him to remove his Cuban missiles, he has embarrassed Kennedy with his troops.

Since neither Kennedy nor anyone else has suggested a quick solution, the American embarrassment should go on indefinitely.

It's additionally galling to know the Russian troops are life insurance for Castro in case the Cuban people wanted to throw him out.

There's another side to the coin:

Castro, since he must depend on Russian economic and military protection for survival, has to be subservient to Russian wishes.

This makes him a puppet. Puppets can be discarded. The Russians, no dopes, must have several other Cuban Communists ready to replace Castro if he balks.

At the same time Cuba, under the Russian wing, is now a training ground for Communists from other Latin-American countries.

Once they graduate they can return home to display their scholarship, with guns, money, propaganda and political and military organization.

Keeping them from returning home seems to be the antisubversion ring Kennedy is talking of tightening.

If by this time the Russians are wishing they weren't so deeply involved in a place so far from Russia as Cuba, there seems little they can do.

They are under pressure not to desert Castro. The Red Chinese already have branded the Russians as chicken Communists.

For the Russians to let Castro fall or fail would be to prove the Chinese right before the rest of the Communist world.

Besides, since Cuba is the first Communist foothold in the Americas, its survival has real and symbolic importance.

The end of communism in Cuba would be a disheartening blow to communism and Communists everywhere in Latin America.

Perhaps the best thing so far to come out of the fear of the spread of communism from Cuba is the realization by American and Latin-American politicians that more Latin-American economic and social progress is needed faster.

Boy Anxious To Use His Patched Arm

SOMERVILLE, Mass. (AP)—Everett Knowles is a restless 13-year-old.

"One thing I can't stand," he says, "is just standing still."

The red-haired youngster has kept moving, kept progressing further along the road toward full use of his once-severed right arm.

He reached another milestone Tuesday when the cast was removed from his arm.

And he can move all five fingers of his right hand.

He can move his wrist in one direction and has some feeling in his upper arm.

Massachusetts General Hospital, where the arm, completely severed by a train last May 23 was restored in an historic operation issued a statement:

"Although it is still too early to make predictions about the ultimate extent of recovery there are some hopeful signs.

"Movement of all five fingers of the right hand indicates regeneration of the median nerve as far as the upper forearm muscles that control finger flexion.

"There is a suggestion that the ulnar nerve has grown to the same level."

The median and ulnar nerves are the two which control the principal functions of the arm.

The award marked the second time during the present school year Merrin has been tabbed top coach by the conference. He also was named Football Coach of the Year after guiding his Logan Elm gridders to a conference championship.

Merrin's Braves captured the conference title with a perfect 4-0 slate. Other honors earned by the team include a share of the Pickaway County Cage crown with Williamsport, the sectional championship and the district championship.

Their present 17-4 slate brings Merrin's cage career record to 53 wins and 11 losses. He has been coach at the school during its three-year existence.

During the assembly the All-Conference basketball team was honored.

Rugby Star Killed Trying To Aid Pal

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A rugby footballer who was to have played in the international tournament at Monterey, Calif., this weekend plunged to his death on the rocks at the San Francisco Cliff House Wednesday while trying to rescue his best friend.

The victim, Michael MacDonald, 24, of the Catholic Youth Organization team from Vancouver, B.C., and Wally Larz, 23, were walking with two other footballers along the Cliff House sidewalk.

Larz and MacDonald leaped a low wall and started down the narrow path to the cliff's edge. Larz slipped, tumbled down the slope and caught on a rock. MacDonald went to help him, slipped and plunged headfirst to the surf line 75 feet below.

Larz extricated himself and was the first to reach his friend's body.

The Universities of Kentucky and Kansas have appeared in the finals of the NCAA basketball tournament four times each. Kentucky won all four games; Kansas won only one.

Everybody Passing Lie Tests In Grid Game 'Fix' Dispute

ATLANTA (AP)—Former Georgia Athletic Director Wallace Butts has taken a lie detector test and his attorney says the results indicate he is telling the truth in denying a charge of collusion to fix the Georgia-Alabama football game last fall.

William Schroder, the attorney, said Butts took the test Wednesday at Jacksonville, Fla. "He passed with flying colors," Schroder said.

The Saturday Evening Post charged that Butts telephoned inside information on the Georgia team to Alabama Coach Paul Bryant eight days before the game which Alabama won 35-0.

Bryant also took a lie detector test. He said the results showed that he, also, was telling the truth in denying the charge.

George Burnett, an Atlanta insurance man who heard the alleged telephone conversation, according to the Post, also took a lie detector test. He said the test showed that he, too, was telling the truth.

Burnett issued a statement through his attorney Wednesday night in which he challenged Butts and Bryant to take additional tests — using sodium pentothal (truth serum).

The attorney said Burnett offered to allow attorneys for Butts and Bryant to question him while he is under the influence of the serum if they would permit his attorney the same privilege in questioning Butts and Bryant.

There was no immediate comment from either Butts or Bryant. A spokesman for the Georgia Athletic Board said a record has been found of a telephone call from Butts to Bryant at the time the Post alleges the two conspired to rig the game.

The attorney for the board, M. Cook Barwick of Atlanta, said "we found a record of a call at the precise time Burnett said he heard the call. The record indicated the call was made from an Atlanta number to Tuscaloosa but was charged to the athletic board."

Butts, who has never denied talking with Bryant, said at his Athens, Ga., home last Sunday that he did not recall a conversation on the specific date.

Burnett was quoted in the Post as saying that through an electronic mistake he was connected into the conversation between Butts and Bryant.

52 Baseballers Report at Teays

Russ Gregg, Teays Valley baseball coach, announced that 52 candidates have turned out for the spring sport.

Five night games have been tentatively scheduled at Teays Valley. The Vikings will compete in the Darby Valley League.

Gregg said he plans to have both varsity and freshmen squads.

Beattie Feathers of the Chicago Bears was the first National Football League player to gain more than 1,000 yards in one season. He did it in 1934 and it was 13 years before Steve VanBuren of the Philadelphia Eagles also topped the mark.

Two Viking Players Named To All-Darby Valley Team

The Teays Valley High School basketball team, co-champion of the Darby Valley League with Greenview and Jonathan Alder, placed two men on the All-League team.

Danny Hollenback and Sonny Roof, both seniors, were picked by the coaches for the one player unit.

In the balloting, each coach votes for 10 players. He cannot vote for a member of his own squad.

Teams are limited to three members in the top 10.

Missing the dream team by a scant two votes was Larry Leist, senior guard for the Vikings.

MEMBERS of the select team are Gayle Bradds, younger brother of Ohio State All-American Gary Bradds, of Greenview, Bob Miller and Gary Huff, both of Cedarville, Jim Jordan and Bob Wright, both of Jonathan Alder, Dan Haenszel of The Plains; Tim Reno of Madison South, Bill Huffman of Triad, Hollenback and Roof.

On the honorable mention list were Leist, Jim Wilkins of Triad, Tom Dewey of The Plains and Harry Pauley, Greenview.

The Vikings had a 5-2 record in league play.

This marked the final year Teays Valley will compete in the Darby Valley League. Next year the athletic teams will play an independent schedule and in 1964 will begin competition in the new South Suburban League.

Ellis Tipped Possible Top Redleg Hurler

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — If Sammy Ellis shows enough of what it takes, he just might become a front line regular among the Cincinnati Reds' pitchers. Manager Fred Hutchinson says of Ellis, "He's too good a prospect to rust away in Cincinnati if he can be pitching elsewhere. If he demonstrates enough to warrant regular duty—well, it's up to him."

Jim Turner, the Reds' mound coach, joins Hutch in an optimistic appraisal of the 21-year-old youngster to whom the Reds paid a $60,000 bonus for signing two years ago. So does Phil Seghi, the Reds' farm boss.

He may not make it this year, but consensus among the Reds' hierarchy seems to be that the slender 175-pounder has "all the tools—and the stomach."

The Reds came here today for a game with the Chicago White Sox after a 6-5 victory over the Minnesota Twins Wednesday.

Two home runs by Johnny Edwards and one by Wally Post accounted for three of seven hits off Dick Stigman, who took the defeat, and Frank Sullivan.

Rookie John Tsitouris gained the victory after giving up two runs in five innings on only two hits. He wild-pitched one run in and allowed another score.

New Jersey authorities declared him legally dead in February. He is being hunted. Taxable Property Values on Climb

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Appraised value of Ohio taxable real estate, public utility and personal property increased 2.7 per cent to $29.3 billion in 1962, State Auditor Roger W. Tracy reported today.

Real estate valuations set the pace with a total of $18.6 billion, up 3.5 per cent over the previous year. Public utility valuations were fixed at $3.8 billion, a 4.2 per cent increase, and tangible personal property values amounted to $6.9 billion, a slight hike of .2 of 1 per cent.

Tracy said 1962 tax collections were made on 1961 valuations of real estate and public utility properties, while 1962 valuations were used for personal property.

Soviet Claims U.S. Condone French A-Test

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet Union has charged that the reported French nuclear test in the Sahara helped to develop arms for the Western powers and was condoned by the United States.

Soviet Ambassador Semyon K. Tsarapkin angrily denounced the French test at a meeting of the 17-nation disarmament conference. Canada, India and the United Arab Republic joined in the protests.

France, boycotting the conference since it opened a year ago, has not confirmed reports that it tested a nuclear device Monday.

Tsarapkin declared that the French government had flaunted the U.N. General Assembly's call for an end to all testing by Jan. 1, 1963.

"It is characteristic that the Western delegations, and particularly the United States delegation, did not find a word to condemn the French test. This silence shows that France, by testing nuclear weapons, has made its contribution to the arms development of the Western bloc and to the nuclear armaments race in general," he said.

U.S. Ambassador Charles C. Stille urged the Soviet delegation to "change its rigid and unreasonable position and begin discussing the major issues involved in reaching agreement on a test ban, rather than insist that discussion be limited to the question of numbers of inspections and its own numbers at that."

Migrant Ag Workers May Appear Early

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Some transient farm workers may come to Ohio earlier than usual this year, and there probably will be 13,000 to 15,000 during the peak season, the Governor's Committee on Migrant Labor has been advised.

James J. Byrne, chief of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation's farm placement division and a committee member, said an unusually cold weather, which affected some crops in the South, may result in a few migratory workers coming to Ohio early.

The total during the peak season probably will not be too far off the usual number, he indicated at Tuesday's meeting. But he added that it is not always easy to predict.

The committee, organized in 1955, and which has about 35 members, re-elected all of its officers Tuesday, including Chairman E. E. Richard, general manager for the H. J. Heinz Co. in Bowling Green.

Dave L. Sunderland, manager of Northern Ohio Sugar Co., Fremont, and first chairman of the committee, said the Interstate Commerce Commission will start next month to check all trucks bringing migratory workers to Ohio to make sure all safety standards are met.

Smart Fisherman Know Thermocline

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—More and more fishermen are taking heed of experts who suggest they learn to detect the location of the thermocline in looking for the big ones.

John Walker, district fish management supervisor in the Department of Wildlife, is one of those who recommends this to fishermen, especially during the hot part of the summer.

He said that for all practical purposes, the thermocline is that depth or stratum below which insufficient oxygen occurs to support life.

It may be detected by lowering a thermometer into the water to read readings at various depths, usually at two-foot intervals. Where a sudden drop of two or three degrees in temperature occurs, within a foot or two in the thermocline. It is the temperature most suited to the fishes' well being provided that a sufficient amount of oxygen and food are present.

Walker says that if anglers will learn to take the proper procedures in finding the thermocline, it will be extremely useful to them in making bigger catches.

Bounties were paid on 870 foxes in Montgomery County in 1962. There are 230 square miles of farm land in the county so this figures out 3.8 foxes for every square mile. The figures are from Vern Bare, wildlife patrolman making a survey for the Division of Wildlife. Bare said 195 foxes were offered for bounty in Madison Township alone, a kill of six foxes per square mile in the township which has the village of Trotwood.

"This is an unbelievably high fox population," he said. "Many of the foxes were gray foxes which are uncommon in this agricultural area."

A total of 29 wild turkeys have been stocked in Hocking County and 13 in Washington County in the past few months. These were all wild birds, most of them live trapped and transplanted from established flocks in other parts of the state. This is part of a continuing effort of wildlife officials to re-establish the wild turkey in suitable range in Ohio.

Grif Griney of West Farmington may have set a new state record for the biggest channel catfish. He caught a 33-pounder measuring 39 inches in Mosquito Lake, Trumbull County, March 9. He reported he caught the fish with a chub minnow in a small area of open water underneath the Ohio 88 causeway at the lake.

Unseeded Villanova drubbed Canisius 79-60 during the regular season and the Wildcats figure they can do it again.

Tonight's winners play for the championship Saturday afternoon.

Mets Use Tree To Aid Defense

Big Dodger Bats Muted by Frick

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Los Angeles Dodgers used big bats, but then the New York Mets used a tree.

The tree turned in a sparkling defensive play for the Mets in the ninth inning Wednesday, holding Bill Skowron's out-of-the-park shot to a triple and saving New York's 4-3 exhibition baseball victory over the Dodgers at Vero Beach.

The Houston Colts got seven hits from Carl Warwick and 33 in all against 21 for San Francisco at Phoenix to outlast the National League champion Giants 16-12 in a 13-inning marathon.

The Yankees, barreling into ninth place in the American League standings, managed to get by with only 27 hits—including homers by Roger Maris and Joe Pepitone—for an 18-3 triumph over Washington at Fort Lauderdale.

Curt Flood hit his third homer and played thief on two drives to center field as the Cardinals dumped the Orioles 4-3 at St. Petersburg. Baltimore was the last undefeated team in exhibition play.

Pittsburgh blanked Detroit in a six-inning game, at Lakeland, Cincinnati edged Minnesota 6-5 at Tampa, the Chicago White Sox defeated Philadelphia 7-5 at Clearwater, Boston whipped Cleveland 5-2 at Scottsdale and the Los Angeles Angels nipped the Chicago Cubs 2-1 at Palm Springs.

Skowron lost his decision with the tree that grew at Vero Beach when his blast with one man on and the Dodgers trailing 4-2 cleared the bank surrounding the outfield but struck the tree and rebounded onto the playing field. Skowron had to settle for a triple.

Oldsters Still Calling Shots For Youngsters in Sports

CHICAGO (AP)—Does your age scare you?

Do you feel an outsider in the 50-mile hike crowd?

Do you think this is strictly a world for bright young guys, who wear sharp suits and wits to match?

Well, here's good cheer for oldsters huddled in what seems a Custer's Last Stand against war-patching youth.

A roll call in the realm of sports leadership reveals the elders still are big pow-wow men.

They'll never see 60, or 70, or even 80 again, but the sports pages still sprout such evergreens as Gen. Douglas MacArthur (83), Branch Rickey (82), Avery Brundage (75), Casey Stengel (71) and Ford Frick, P. K. Wrigley and George Halas, all 68.

Then how about Will Harridge (77), George (Red) Trautman (73), Chick Evans (72) and K. L. (Tug) Wilson (67).

These aren't rocking-chair dreamers of the past. Old soldier MacArthur recently astounded the rival AAU and NCAA leaders with his firm arbitration in their long-standing feud for control of amateur athletics.

Rickey, baseball's old fox, has them alive in the St. Louis Cardinal front office. Brundage still is the most dominant personality in the amateur sports world as president of the International Olympic Committee.

Stengel still gets interviewed by the hour and never runs out of subject matter as boss of the low-

Cuyahoga County Plans Cancer Check

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cuyahoga County women will be asked to cooperate in a year-long program aimed at wiping out uterine (womb) cancer here.

The local unit of the American Cancer Society and the Cleveland Academy of Medicine are asking women over 21 to visit their physicians starting April 15 for a test that detects the beginning of cancer.

Indians Proud Of Martinez

Prize Rookie Tagged As Opening Shortstop

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—One of the most widely discussed and highly regarded major league rookies is Antonio (Tony) Martinez, who will be the Cleveland Indians' opening day shortstop April 9.

It was a far back as last January that Cleveland Manager Birdie Tebbetts announced Martinez would be his opening day shortstop although he had never seen him play.

No that he has, Tebbetts is even more convinced that the 21-year-old Cuban, with only three years of minor league baseball experience behind him, can take over as the Indians' every-day shortstop.

"Martinez not only will open the season at shortstop for us," said Tebbetts today, "but he'll be there the next day, the next week the next month and every day in the season. He's the shortstop . . . period."

Such preseason buildup has been known to affect young players before.

"I don't think it bothers me," said Martinez, who speaks English better than most Latin players. "I know what Tebbetts say but I don't think the position is given me. I know I have to show it. I feel I have lots to learn and I learn something every day."

Tebbetts is not alone in saying Martinez is a sure thing to make it with Cleveland. Virtually everyone who has seen the broad-shouldered youngster of 5-foot-11 and 175 pounds sings his praises.

"He'll field with anyone you ever saw," said Gabe Paul, the Indians' president and general manager. "He comes in quicker on slow rollers than any one I ever saw."

"He's one of the best I have ever seen," said Cleveland coach George Strickland, who was once an outstanding shortstop himself. "He's got great legs and an outstanding arm. I feel he could have played major league ball last season."

Martinez batted .287 at Jacksonville last year, led the International League's shortstops in fielding and was voted the team's most valuable player.

Merrin Chosen Scioto Valley Coach of Year

Logan Elms head basketball coach, Keith Merrin, was named Coach of the Year of the Scioto Valley Conference yesterday during an assembly at Logan Elm School.

The award marked the second time during the present school year Merrin has been tabbed top coach by the conference. He also was named Football Coach of the Year after guiding his Logan Elm gridders to a conference championship.

Merrin's Braves captured the conference title with a perfect 4-0 slate. Other honors earned by the team include a share of the Pickaway County Cage crown with Williamsport, the sectional championship and the district championship.

Their present 17-4 slate brings Merrin's cage career record to 53 wins and 11 losses. He has been coach at the school during its three-year existence.

During the assembly the All-Conference basketball team was honored.

Rugby Star Killed Trying To Aid Pal

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A rugby footballer who was to have played in the international tournament at Monterey, Calif., this weekend plunged to his death on the rocks at the San Francisco Cliff House Wednesday while trying to rescue his best friend.

The victim, Michael MacDonald, 24, of the Catholic Youth Organization team from Vancouver, B.C., and Wally Larz, 23, were walking with two other footballers along the Cliff House sidewalk.

Larz and MacDonald leaped a low wall and started down the narrow path to the cliff's edge. Larz slipped, tumbled down the slope and caught on a rock. MacDonald went to help him, slipped and plunged headfirst to the surf line 75 feet below.

Larz extricated himself and was the first to reach his friend's body.

The Universities of Kentucky and Kansas have appeared in the finals of the NCAA basketball tournament four times each. Kentucky won all four games; Kansas won only one.

Two Viking Players Named To All-Darby Valley Team

The Teays Valley High School basketball team, co-champion of the Darby Valley League with Greenview and Jonathan Alder, placed two men on the All-League team.

Danny Hollenback and Sonny Roof, both seniors, were picked by the coaches for the team player unit.

In the balloting, each coach votes for 10 players. He cannot vote for a member of his own squad.

Teams are limited to three members in the top 10.

Missing the dream team by a scant two votes was Larry Leist, senior guard for the Vikings.

MEMBERS of the select team are Gayle Bradds, younger brother of Ohio State All-American Gary Bradds, of Greenview, Bob Miller and Gary Huff, both of Cedarville, Jim Jordan and Bob Wright, both of Jonathan Alder, Dan Haenszel of The Plains; Tim Reno of Madison South, Bill Huffman of Triad, Hollenback and Roof.

On the honorable mention list were Leist, Jim Wilkins of Triad, Tom Dewey of The Plains and Harry Pauley, Greenview.

The Vikings had a 5-2 record in league play. This marked the final year Teays Valley will compete in the Darby Valley League. Next year the athletic teams will play an independent schedule and in 1964 will begin competition in the new South Suburban League.

Birdie Eyes New Pitching Star Prospect

MESA, Ariz. (AP)—The Cleveland Indians have had their four-game winning streak broken, but Manager Birdie Tebbetts isn't crying. He may have found another sleeper on his pitching staff.

The Boston Red Sox handed Cleveland a 5-2 setback at Scottsdale Wednesday as Tebbetts watched rookie Gordon Seyfried pitch nine innings.

Seyfried is the first Cleveland pitcher to hurl nine innings in spring training since 1949. The 25-year-old right-hander, obtained from Detroit during the winter, was supposed to go half way. Barry Latman had been planning to follow Seyfried.

"I know what Latman can do and I wanted to take a real good look at Seyfried," said Tebbetts. "He had good control and didn't walk anybody. He didn't get good support from us in the field (he gave up 10 hits).

Max Alvis, rookie third baseman who has had fielding troubles, smacked two hits against the Red Sox Wednesday and raised his average to an even .400 on 16 hits in 40 at bats.

Dick Stuart and Roman Mejias provided the punch for the winners. Mejias belted a homer and two singles. Stuart drove in two runs with a homer and sacrifice fly.

Everybody Passing Lie Tests In Grid Game 'Fix' Dispute

ATLANTA (AP)—Former Georgia Athletic Director Wallace Butts has taken a lie detector test and his attorney says the results indicate he is telling the truth in denying a charge of collusion to fix the Georgia-Alabama football game last fall.

William Schroder, the attorney, said Butts took the test Wednesday at Jacksonville, Fla. "He passed with flying colors," Schroder said.

The Saturday Evening Post charged that Butts telephoned inside information on the Georgia team to Alabama Coach Paul Bryant eight days before the game which Alabama won 35-0.

Bryant also took a lie detector test. He said the results showed that he, also, was telling the truth in denying the charge.

George Burnett, an Atlanta insurance man who heard the alleged telephone conversation, according to the Post, also took a lie detector test. He said the test showed that he, too, was telling the truth.

Burnett issued a statement through his attorney Wednesday night in which he challenged Butts and Bryant to take additional tests—using sodium pentothal (truth serum).

The attorney said Burnett offered to allow attorneys for Butts and Bryant to question him while he is under the influence of the serum if they would permit his attorney the same privilege in questioning Butts and Bryant.

There was no immediate comment from either Butts or Bryant. A spokesman for the Georgia Athletic Board said a record has been found of a telephone call from Butts to Bryant at the time the Post alleges the two conspired to rig the game.

The attorney for the board, M. Cook Barwick of Atlanta, said "we found a record of a call at the precise time Burnett said he heard the call. The record indicated the call was made from an Atlanta number to Tuscaloosa but was charged to the athletic board."

Butts, who has never denied talking with Bryant, said at his Athens, Ga., home last Sunday that he did not recall a conversation on the specific date.

Burnett was quoted in the Post as saying that through an electronic mistake he was connected into the conversation between Butts and Bryant.

Ellis Tipped Possible Top Redleg Hurler

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — If Sammy Ellis shows enough of what it takes, he just might become a front line regular among the Cincinnati Reds' pitchers.

Manager Fred Hutchinson says of Ellis, "He's too good a prospect to rust away in Cincinnati if he can be pitching elsewhere. If he demonstrates enough to warrant regular duty—well, it's up to him."

Jim Turner, the Reds' mound coach, joins Hutch in an optimistic appraisal of the 21-year-old youngster to whom the Reds paid a $60,000 bonus for signing two years ago. So does Phil Seghi, the Reds' farm boss.

He may not make it this year, but consensus among the Reds' hierarchy seems to be that the slender 175-pounder has "all the tools—and the stomach."

The Reds came here today for a game with the Chicago White Sox after a 6-5 victory over the Minnesota Twins Wednesday.

Two home runs by Johnny Edwards and one by Wally Post accounted for three of seven hits off Dick Stigman, who took the defeat, and Frank Sullivan.

Rookie John Tsitouris gained the victory after giving up two runs in five innings on only two hits. He wild-pitched one run in and allowed another score.

Floyd-Sonny Match Off For 6 Months

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A knee operation will put heavy-weight champion Sonny Liston out of action for at least six months. He may not fight again until next year.

The return bout with Floyd Patterson, which has been hanging by a thread for several weeks, was postponed indefinitely Wednesday night by the Miami Boxing Commission, after an official examination that revealed damage to the cartilage in Liston's left knee.

"It is our opinion that this knee should have the benefit of surgical procedure," said a report by Dr. A. H. Weiland, widely known orthopedic surgeon who made the examination.

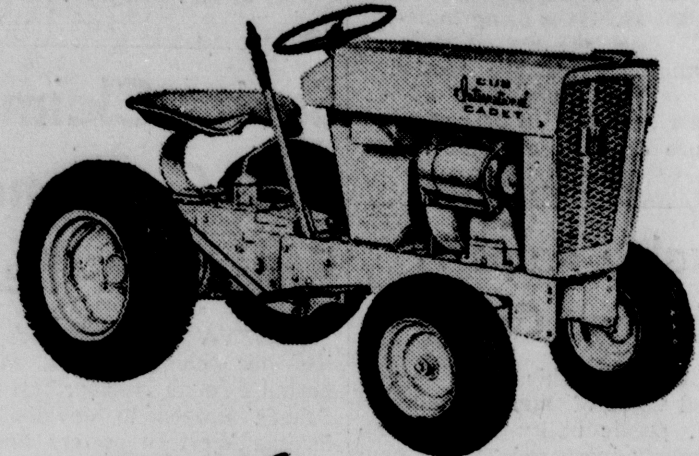

It would take at least six months for the knee to heal after such an operation, Dr. Weiland said. One of Liston's associates said the champion probably will not schedule a fight during the remainder of this year.

When the rematch with Patterson will be fought now is up to Liston. Where it will be is up to Patterson, who has the right in the return bout to name the site. Quietly, Patterson closed his Tropical Park training camp Tuesday night and began an automobile trip to his home in New York.

The New York Mets led the National League in walks last year with 616.

Smart Fisherman Know Thermocline

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—More and more fishermen are taking heed of experts who suggest they learn to detect the location of the thermocline in looking for the big ones.

John Walker, district fish management supervisor in the Department of Wildlife, is one of those who recommends this to fishermen, especially during the hot part of the summer.

He said that for all practical purposes, the thermocline is that depth or stratum below which insufficient oxygen occurs to support life.

It may be detected by lowering a thermometer into the water to take readings at various depths, usually at two - foot intervals. Where a sudden drop of two or three degrees in temperature occurs, within a foot or two in the thermocline. It is the temperature most suited to the fishes' well being provided that a sufficient amount of oxygen and food are present.

Walker says that if anglers will learn to take the proper procedures in finding the thermocline, it will be extremely useful to them in making bigger catches.

Bounties were paid on 870 foxes in Montgomery County in 1962. There are 230 square miles of farm land in the county so this figures out 3.8 foxes for every square mile. The figures are from Vern Bare, wildlife patrolman making a survey for the Division of Wildlife. Bare said 195 foxes were offered for bounty in Madison Township alone, a kill of six foxes per square mile in the township which has the village of Trotwood.

"This is an unbelievably high fox population," he said. "Many of the foxes were gray foxes which are uncommon in this agricultural area."

A total of 29 wild turkeys have been stocked in Hocking County and 13 in Washington County in the past few months. These were all wild birds, most of them live trapped and transplanted from established flocks in other parts of the state. This is part of a continuing effort of wildlife officials to re-establish the wild turkey in suitable range in Ohio.

Grif Griney of West Farmington may have set a new state record for the biggest channel catfish. He caught a 33-pounder measuring 39 inches in Mosquito Lake, Trumbull County, March 9. He reported he caught the fish with a chub minnow in a small area of open water underneath the Ohio 88 causeway at the lake.

Mets Use Tree To Aid Defense

Big Dodger Bats Muted by Freak

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Los Angeles Dodgers used big bats, but then the New York Mets used a tree.

The tree turned in a sparkling defensive play for the Mets in the ninth inning Wednesday, holding Bill Skowron's out-of-the-park shot to a triple and saving New York's 4-3 exhibition baseball victory over the Dodgers at Vero Beach.

The Houston Colts got seven hits from Carl Warwick and 33 in all against 21 for San Francisco at Phoenix to outlast the National League champion Giants 16-12 in a 13-inning marathon.

The Yankees, barreling into ninth place in the American League standings, managed to get by with only 27 hits—including homers by Roger Maris and Joe Pepitone—for an 18-3 triumph over Washington at Fort Lauderdale.

Curt Flood hit his third homer and played thief on two drives to center field as the Cardinals dumped the Orioles 4-3 at St. Petersburg. Baltimore was the last undefeated team in exhibition play.

Pittsburgh blanked Detroit in a six-inning game, at Lakeland, Cincinnati edged Minnesota 6-5 at Tampa, the Chicago White Sox defeated Philadelphia 7-5 at Clearwater, Boston whipped Cleveland 5-2 at Scottsdale and the Los Angeles Angels nipped the Chicago Cubs 2-1 at Palm Springs.

Skowron lost his decision with the tree that grew at Vero Beach when his blast with one man on and the Dodgers trailing 4-2 cleared the bank surrounding the outfield but struck the tree and rebounded onto the playing field. Skowron had to settle for a triple.

Thirteen different trotters were timed in two minutes or better for the mile in America in 1962. Those over 3-years-old were Su Mac Lad, an 8-year-old gelding, and Ordeal, and 11-year-old New Zealand mare.

Mac Lad, an 8-year-old gelding, and Ordeal, and 11-year-old New Zealand mare.

Sixty pacers raced a mile in two minutes or less in 1962. Thirteen trotters accomplished the feat.

Oldsters Still Calling Shots For Youngsters in Sports

CHICAGO (AP)—Does your age scare you?

Do you feel an outsider in the 50-mile hike crowd?

Do you think this is strictly a world for bright young guys, who wear sharp suits and wits to match?

Well, here's good cheer for oldsters huddled in what seems a Custer's Last Stand against war-patching youth.

A roll call in the realm of sports leadership reveals the elders still are big pow-wow men.

They'll never see 60, or 70, or even 80 again, but the sports pages still sprout such evergreens as Gen. Douglas MacArthur (83), Branch Rickey (82), Avery Brundage (75), Casey Stengel (71) and Ford Frick, P. K. Wrigley and George Halas, all 68.

Then how about Will Harridge (77), George (Red) Trautman (73), Chick Evans (72) and K. L. (Tug) Wilson (67).

These aren't rocking-chair dreamers of the past. Old soldier MacArthur recently astounded the rival AAU and NCAA leaders with his firm arbitration in their long-standing feud for control of amateur athletics.

Rickey, baseball's old fox, has them alive in the St. Louis Cardinal front office. Brundage still is the most dominant personality in the amateur sports world as president of the International Olympic Committee.

Stengel still gets interviewed by the hour and never runs out of subject matter as boss of the low-

Cuyahoga County Plans Cancer Check

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cuyahoga County women will be asked to cooperate in a year-long program aimed at wiping out uterine (womb) cancer here.

The local unit of the American Cancer Society and the Cleveland Academy of Medicine are asking women over 21 to visit their physicians starting April 15 for a test that detects the beginning of cancer.

Walter Alston of the Los Angeles Dodgers is the dean of National League managers in terms of consecutive service to one club. He's handled the Dodgers since 1957.

Indians Proud Of Martinez

Prize Rookie Tagged As Opening Shortstop

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—One of the most widely discussed and highly regarded major league rookies is Antonio (Tony) Martinez, who will be the Cleveland Indians' opening day shortstop April 9.

It was a far back as last January that Cleveland Manager Birdie Tebbetts announced Martinez would be his opening day shortstop although he had never seen him play.

No that he has, Tebbetts is even more convinced that the 21-year-old Cuban, with only three years of minor league baseball experience behind him, can take over as the Indians' every-day shortstop.

"Martinez not only will open the season at shortstop for us," said Tebbetts today, "but he'll be there the next day, the next week the next month and every day in the season. He's the shortstop . . . period."

Such preseason buildup has been known to affect young players before.

"I don't think it bothers me," said Martinez, who speaks English better than most Latin players. "I know what Tebbetts says but I don't think the position is given me. I know I have to show it. I feel I have lots to learn and I learn something every day."

Tebbetts is not alone in saying Martinez is a sure thing to make it with Cleveland. Virtually everyone who has seen the broad-shouldered youngster of 5-foot-11 and 175 pounds sings his praises.

"He'll field with anyone you ever saw," said Gabe Paul, the Indians' president and general manager. "He comes in quicker on slow rollers than any one I ever saw."

"He's one of the best I have ever seen," said Cleveland coach George Strickland, who was once an outstanding shortstop himself. "He's got great legs and an outstanding arm. I feel he could have played major league ball last season."

Martinez batted .287 at Jacksonville last year, led the International League's shortstops in fielding and was voted the team's most valuable player.

Contaminated

vent at any cost the distribution of merchandise that conceivably could be contaminated.

George Fowler, assistant to the Detroit FDA director, raised the possibility only one can, if any, may have been tainted.

"It is pure speculation on my part, but there is a possibility that an air pocket—even in one individual can—could have kept temperature inside that can low enough during pressure cooking for the organism to survive," Fowler said.

On Jan. 8, the day the A&P consignment was canned, Duffy said the Washington Canning Corp. of San Francisco processed a total of 550 cases or 26,400 cans. Washington packs under its own brand name and under the labels of several chains.

California public health officials said the A&P tuna was cooked for a longer time and at a higher temperature than required by state regulations. Daughters said in Detroit California's inspection system is one of the best and he would be surprised if anything got by it.

Medical dictionaries describe botulism as food poisoning due to improperly canned food. Daughters said types A and B are not uncommon in home-canned vegetables.

Symptoms of botulism usually begin with blurred or double vision. The disease damages nerves, especially those involved in breathing, swallowing and speaking, and can cause circulatory collapse.

State Adult Jail Population Reaches Peak

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's adult state prison population reached an all-time high of 11,681 in mid-March, Correction Commissioner Maury C. Koblenz says.

"That was March 13," the prisons chief said. "Then we had a parole date, lowering the population somewhat. But it started climbing right back up toward the record again."

There was another parole date Wednesday.

Paradoxically, court commitments to the state's adult penal institutions were down slightly in January and February, Koblenz says.

But he adds:

"March traditionally is a high-intake month because of convictions resulting from January grand jury indictments. If the intake continues at the rate of the first two weeks, this may be one of the heaviest months ever."

Each of the state's adult prisons either is at, or over, its rated inmate capacity, the commissioner said.

"It's particularly serious at Ohio Penitentiary in Columbus," he said. "We've got 3,791 men in facilities designed for 2,500."

American car makers turned out 4,192 vehicles in 1960 but didn't start producing trucks until 1964 when they made 700.

Human Heart May Increase Air Safety

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Mathematical studies of the human circulatory system have resulted in new information that may greatly reduce hydraulic failures in airplanes, a Nebraska scientist says.

Dr. Harry Lobel, professor at the Brownell - Talbot School in Omaha, told the Second Air Force Bionics Symposium here Wednesday that man is like a machine in many ways.

"In some ways the heart is a pump, the arteries are pipes and blood is fluid," he said. By studying their functions, he said, scientists gain information that has mechanical application.

As an example, he said discovery that the flow of blood through the human body is streamlined by tiny "funnels"—found between main and small arteries—could be applied to machines.

In designing aircraft, he said the use of the same principle might prevent hydraulic failures in aircraft. In the medical field, he said, the discovery may lead to a cure or effective treatment for high blood pressure.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Thursday, March 21, the 80th day of 1963. There are 285 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this day in 1621, Gov. Carver of the Plymouth Colony made the first treaty ever negotiated with the Indians—one of the most successful in American history.

The pact remained in force for more than 54 years, during which there were no Indian disturbances in Southeast Massachusetts.

On this day:
In 1685, German composer Johann Sebastian Bach was born.

In 1815, Napoleon Bonaparte and his forces entered Paris.

In 1924, the state of Kentucky required daily reading of the Bible in its public schools.

In 1952, tornadoes ripped through Alabama, Arkansas, Kentucky, Mississippi, Missouri and Tennessee killing 233 persons and injuring more than 1,000.

Today's birthdays:
English theatrical producer Peter Brook is 38. Business executive John D. Rockefeller III is 57.

Thought for today:

Criticized Drugs Off Market Long Time, FDA Chief Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—Food and Drug Commissioner George P. Larrick says three drugs which an FDA medical officer claimed had not been proven for safety "have been off the market for a long time."

And Larrick said in a statement Wednesday, the drug law passed by Congress last year will enable his agency to deal with such cases more effectively in the future.

Dr. John O. Nestor, medical officer for FDA Bureau of Medicine, told the Senate Government Operations subcommittee Wednesday that the agency had permitted sale of at least three drugs—Entouquel, Mer-29 and Altafur—although preliminary data on them did not substantiate their safety.

Nestor further testified that the FDA dragged its feet in pulling two of them—Mer-29 and Altafur—off the market following indications that they produced injurious side effects.

The subcommittee headed by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., resumes its study of drug marketing safety procedures today.

Larrick in his statement conceded that the original drug applications criticized by Nestor "could have been done better." But he noted that the FDA is bound by laws passed by Congress, and the cases cited by Nestor occurred before Congress last fall passed a stricter law for handling and licensing new drugs.

An FDA spokesman said Wednesday night that some of the provisions of the new drug law are in effect and "most will become operative early in May."

Nestor, 50, a Washington pediatrician who joined the bureau two years ago as a specialist on pediatric drugs, declined comment Wednesday night when asked if he thought the new regulations would preclude cases such as he cited.

Nestor testified that he and other pediatricians have opposed an application to include menadione (vitamin K) in a multiple purpose vitamin capsule on grounds that if given pregnant women it might lead to brain damage, spasticity and death in newborn infants.

He said he had been unable to learn the outcome of the case. Larrick said the firm has been advised that its application does not sufficiently establish the safety of the capsule and that it had until today to file new evidence.

An FDA spokesman said the proposed capsule containing menadione has not been marketed.

Contaminated

vent at any cost the distribution of merchandise that conceivably could be contaminated.

George Fowler, assistant to the Detroit FDA director, raised the possibility only one can, if any, may have been tainted.

"It is pure speculation on my part, but there is a possibility that an air pocket—even in one individual can—could have kept temperature inside that can low enough during pressure cooking for the organism to survive," Fowler said.

On Jan. 8, the day the A&P consignment was canned, Duffy said the Washington Canning Corp. of San Francisco processed a total of 550 cases or 26,400 cans. Washington packs under its own brand name and under the labels of several chains.

California public health officials said the A&P tuna was cooked for a longer time and at a higher temperature than required by state regulations. Daughters said in Detroit California's inspection system is one of the best and he would be surprised if anything got by it.

Medical dictionaries describe botulism as food poisoning due to improperly canned food. Daughters said types A and B are not uncommon in home-canned vegetables.

Symptoms of botulism usually begin with blurred or double vision. The disease damages nerves, especially those involved in breathing, swallowing and speaking, and can cause circulatory collapse.

State Adult Jail Population Reaches Peak

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's adult state prison population reached an all-time high of 11,681 in mid-March, Correction Commissioner Maury C. Koblenz says.

"That was March 13," the prisons chief said. "Then we had a parole date, lowering the population somewhat. But it started climbing right back up toward the record again."

There was another parole date Wednesday. Paradoxically, court commitments to the state's adult penal institutions were down slightly in January and February, Koblenz says.

But he adds: "March traditionally is a high intake month because of convictions resulting from January grand jury indictments. If the intake continues at the rate of the first two weeks, this may be one of the heaviest months ever."

Each of the state's adult prisons either is at, or over, its rated inmate capacity, the commissioner said.

"It's particularly serious at Ohio Penitentiary in Columbus," he said. "We've got 3,791 men in facilities designed for 2,500."

American car makers turned out 4,192 vehicles in 1960 but didn't start producing trucks until 1964 when they made 700.

Human Heart May Increase Air Safety

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Mathematical studies of the human circulatory system have resulted in new information that may greatly reduce hydraulic failures in airplanes, a Nebraska scientist says.

Dr. Harry Lobel, professor at the Brownell - Talbot School in Omaha, told the Second Air Force Bionics Symposium here Wednesday that man is like a machine in many ways.

"In some ways the heart is a pump, the arteries are pipes and blood is fluid," he said. By studying their functions, he said, scientists gain information that has mechanical application.

As an example, he said discovery that the flow of blood through the human body is streamlined by tiny "funnels"—found between main and small arteries—could be applied to machines.

In designing aircraft, he said the use of the same principle might prevent hydraulic failures in aircraft. In the medical field, he said, the discovery may lead to a cure or effective treatment for high blood pressure.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Thursday, March 21, the 80th day of 1963. There are 285 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this day in 1621, Gov. Carver of the Plymouth Colony made the first treaty ever negotiated with the Indians—one of the most successful in American history. The pact remained in force for more than 54 years, during which there were no Indian disturbances in Southeast Massachusetts.

On this day:
In 1685, German composer Johann Sebastian Bach was born.

In 1815, Napoleon Bonaparte and his forces entered Paris.

In 1924, the state of Kentucky required daily reading of the Bible in its public schools.

In 1952, tornadoes ripped through Alabama, Arkansas, Kentucky, Mississippi, Missouri and Tennessee killing 233 persons and injuring more than 1,000.

Today's birthdays:

Criticized Drugs Off Market Long Time, FDA Chief Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—Food and Drug Commissioner George P. Larrick says three drugs which an FDA medical officer claimed had not been proven for safety "have been off the market for a long time."

And Larrick said in a statement Wednesday, the drug law passed by Congress last year will enable his agency to deal with such cases more effectively in the future.

Dr. John O. Nestor, medical officer for FDA Bureau of Medicine, told the Senate Government Operations subcommittee Wednesday that the agency had permitted sale of at least three drugs—Entoquel, Mer-29 and Altatur—although preliminary data on them did not substantiate their safety.

Nestor further testified that the FDA dragged its feet in pulling two of them—Mer-29 and Altatur—off the market following indications that they produced injurious side effects.

The subcommittee headed by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., resumes its study of drug marketing safety procedures today.

Larrick in his statement conceded that the original drug applications criticized by Nestor "could have been done better." But he noted that the FDA is bound by laws passed by Congress, and the cases cited by Nestor occurred before Congress last fall passed a stricter law for handling and licensing new drugs.

An FDA spokesman said Wednesday night that some of the provisions of the new drug law are in effect and "most will become operative early in May."

Nestor, 50, a Washington pediatrician who joined the bureau two years ago as a specialist on pediatric drugs, declined comment Wednesday night when asked if he thought the new regulations would preclude cases such as he cited.

Nestor testified that he and other pediatricians have opposed an application to include menadione (vitamin K) in a multiple purpose vitamin capsule on grounds that if given pregnant women it might lead to brain damage, spasticity and death in newborn infants.

He said he had been unable to learn the outcome of the case. Larrick said the firm has been advised that its application does not sufficiently establish the safety of the capsule and that it had until today to file new evidence.

An FDA spokesman said the proposed capsule containing menadione has not been marketed.
